Division Between Campus Does Not Mean A Division In Pride

Due to the new extention to the boundaries of Fontana High School, the yearbook staff chose "Divided Yet United" as this '87 yearbook theme.

Our pride still remained throughout our perimeter, but the population and classes have been divided, in order that the vast crowds could be avoided. Many students felt that this division was great due to less crowding in the halls and throughout the school grounds. Although there were mixed feelings about the separation, the result has been a division in our school. The spirit has been hard to keep throughout the campus due to the fact that pep rallies and other activities were too hard to coordinate with the shuttle buses. Yet the '87 yearbook staff tried to stress the fact, in this yearbook, that although our campus wa divided, that didn't mean that our spirit ar enthusiasm for Fohi had to be any less.

The division has taken place betwee our north campus and our newly acquire Fohi south campus. Fohi South was an a cumulation of business classes, ele tronics, auto shops, and a few college pre classes.

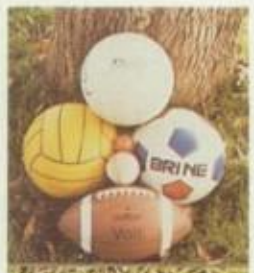
Index 266



Many of these items seem very familiar to those students who have become our outstanding athletes.

An apple is sometimes a cheery way to tell the enthusiastic faculty what a fantastic job they have done.

Members of the class of '87 excitedly anticipate their futures of jobs, college, and families.

Corsages and boutonnieres are a familiar sight at most dances, but not really appropriate for the faculty follies, blood drive, or the many popular sock hops.

The class of '88 was filled with much enthusiasm and participation throughout its junior year.

After a year of being the low ones on the totem pole, members of the class of '89 look anxiously toward their junior year.

Scholastics has proven to have been a truly important part of our school. Each individual strove to be the ones to receive the achievement medals at the end of each semester.

The extracurricular organizations seem to have been very prosperous, due to the profits of the many fundraisers.

Memories of the past year seem to come to mind as the year comes to an end and many goodbyes are said.

Sponsors for our yearbook are truly important and appreciated because of all the money they give in order that our yearbook may be filled with extras.

The index made it possible for the identification of all our students, due to the advanced technology of the IBM computer, with the touch of a button.

Enhancing Our Educational Program With Style!

The 1986-87 school year brought many exciting changes, one of which was Mrs. Kay Rager's being named Fohi's first female principal.

Several of Mrs. Rager's goals for this year included the painting of the school, establishing Fohi South as an intregal part of school life, and emphasizing good working conditions for both students and teachers. Her other concerns included improvement of CAP and SAT test scores, the school's WASC (Western Association of Schools and Colleges) accreditation, and emphasis on teacher-student relationships.

Mrs. Rager has been in the district since 1969 and was the Vocational and Career Vice-Principal last year.

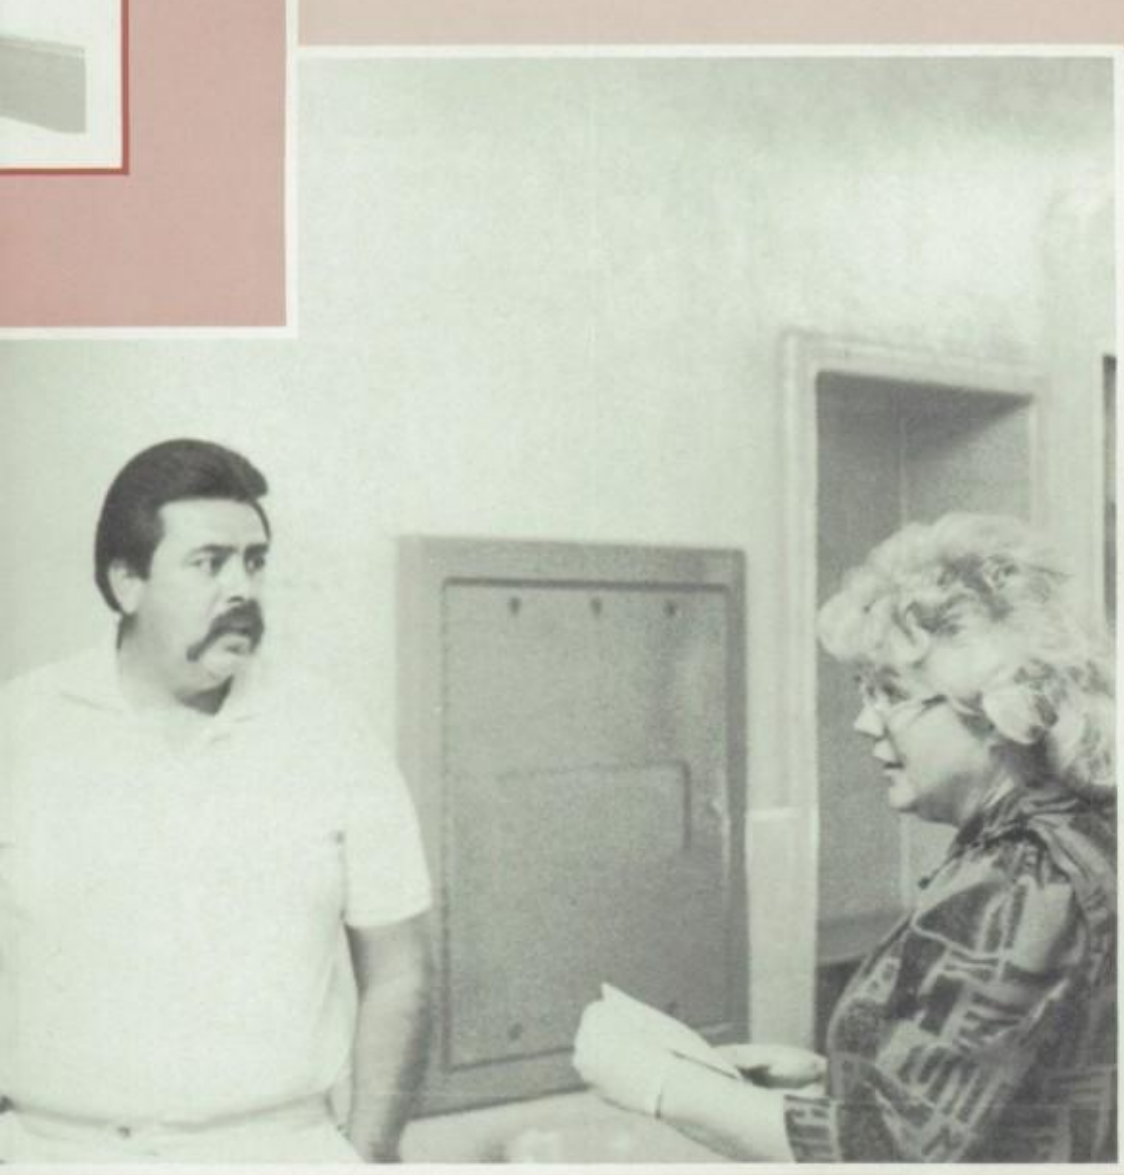
When asked to describe herself in a single word, Mrs. Rager replied, "Friendly." Principal Rager also said that she loved the students and that the student body was "a very appreciative group."

According to many students and staff members, Mrs. Rager has done an outstanding job!

▼ Mrs. Rager welcomes Mrs. Mason to Fohi and discusses with her the new attendance system.

▼ Mrs. Rager goes to different Senior classes to give enthusiasm to the students at raising the CAP scores.

◀ While walking down the hall, Mrs. Rager stops them to ask their opinion of the painting of the school.



► On the shuttle buses, some people were happy, some were not, due to the extreme crowdedness.
▲ The usual attendance window seen by many students to whom rehab and passes back to class were distributed.
► A scene viewed by seniors before the juniors were kicked out of the parking lot, and parking stickers were distributed.

Attendance and Parking Lot Rules

The new attendance policy in the school was handled mostly by computers, which weren't quite working at the beginning of the year. Teachers marked on a sheet which then was picked up by student assistants and then placed into a computer which read whether the student was tardy or absent. This then recorded the mark in its memory. When a parent called or wrote a note excusing a student, an attendance worker cleared the absence.

The attendance was running right along with the number of cars in the parking lot. In the past years, the parking lot has gotten fuller and fuller as more students have obtained cars, and the over crowding problem has become worse. To solve the problem, each student who wished to park on school grounds had to obtain a parking sticker. The seniors who wished to park in the senior parking lot had to get a senior parking sticker. If they parked in the senior lot without one, they almost definitely received a twelve dollar parking ticket. Also, city driving laws were enforced.

Talking about cars, driving, and parking lot rules, shuttling comes to mind. In the forming of Fohi South, the means of transportation came about. A solution was found and is now being used in the process.

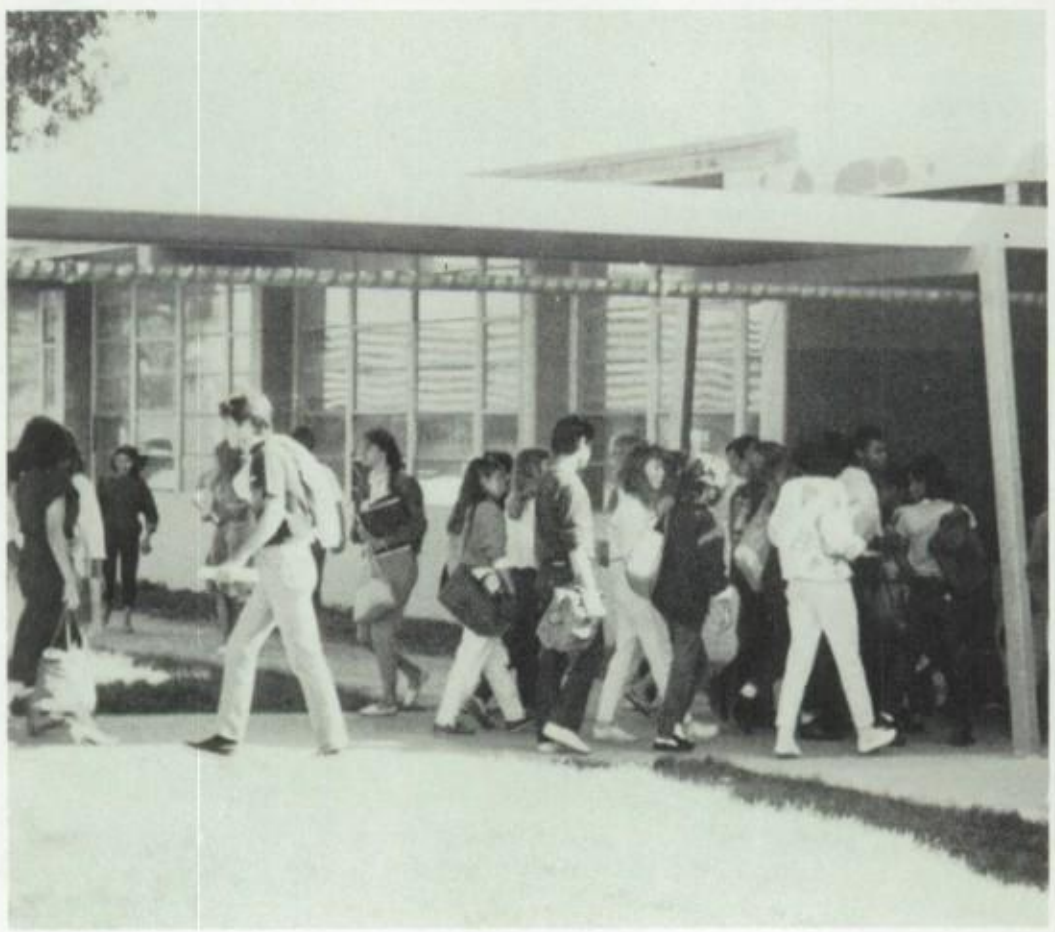
The solution was to have buses supply transportation between every two classes; therefore, students had to have at least two classes at Fohi South at a time. To keep students from being tardy coming back to school, there was an extra long passing period between the two classes that were the closest together. This system worked very well.

▶ Many people waited awhile for all the buses from FoHi South to come up after school before climbing on to trudge the routine walk home.

▼ Mrs. Joanne Kingsbury looks tired among all of the working computers, after typing names of current students.

▼ Many busses had to go around the parking lot at lunchtime due to the congestion of the parking lot.

► Students rush to the busses to get the best seats.
▲ As new homes pop up, so do more students.
► Crowds such as this one are present between classes in halls and walkways.



Housing, Crowds; Is It Going to be a Problem?

All across the campus people were squashed together trying to make it from one class to the next. Mrs. Kay Rager, principal, after walking through the crowded hallways, said that we were, "the best behaved group of kids I've seen since I've been on this campus." She was very pleased with the way students always said "excuse me," instead of "get out of my way."

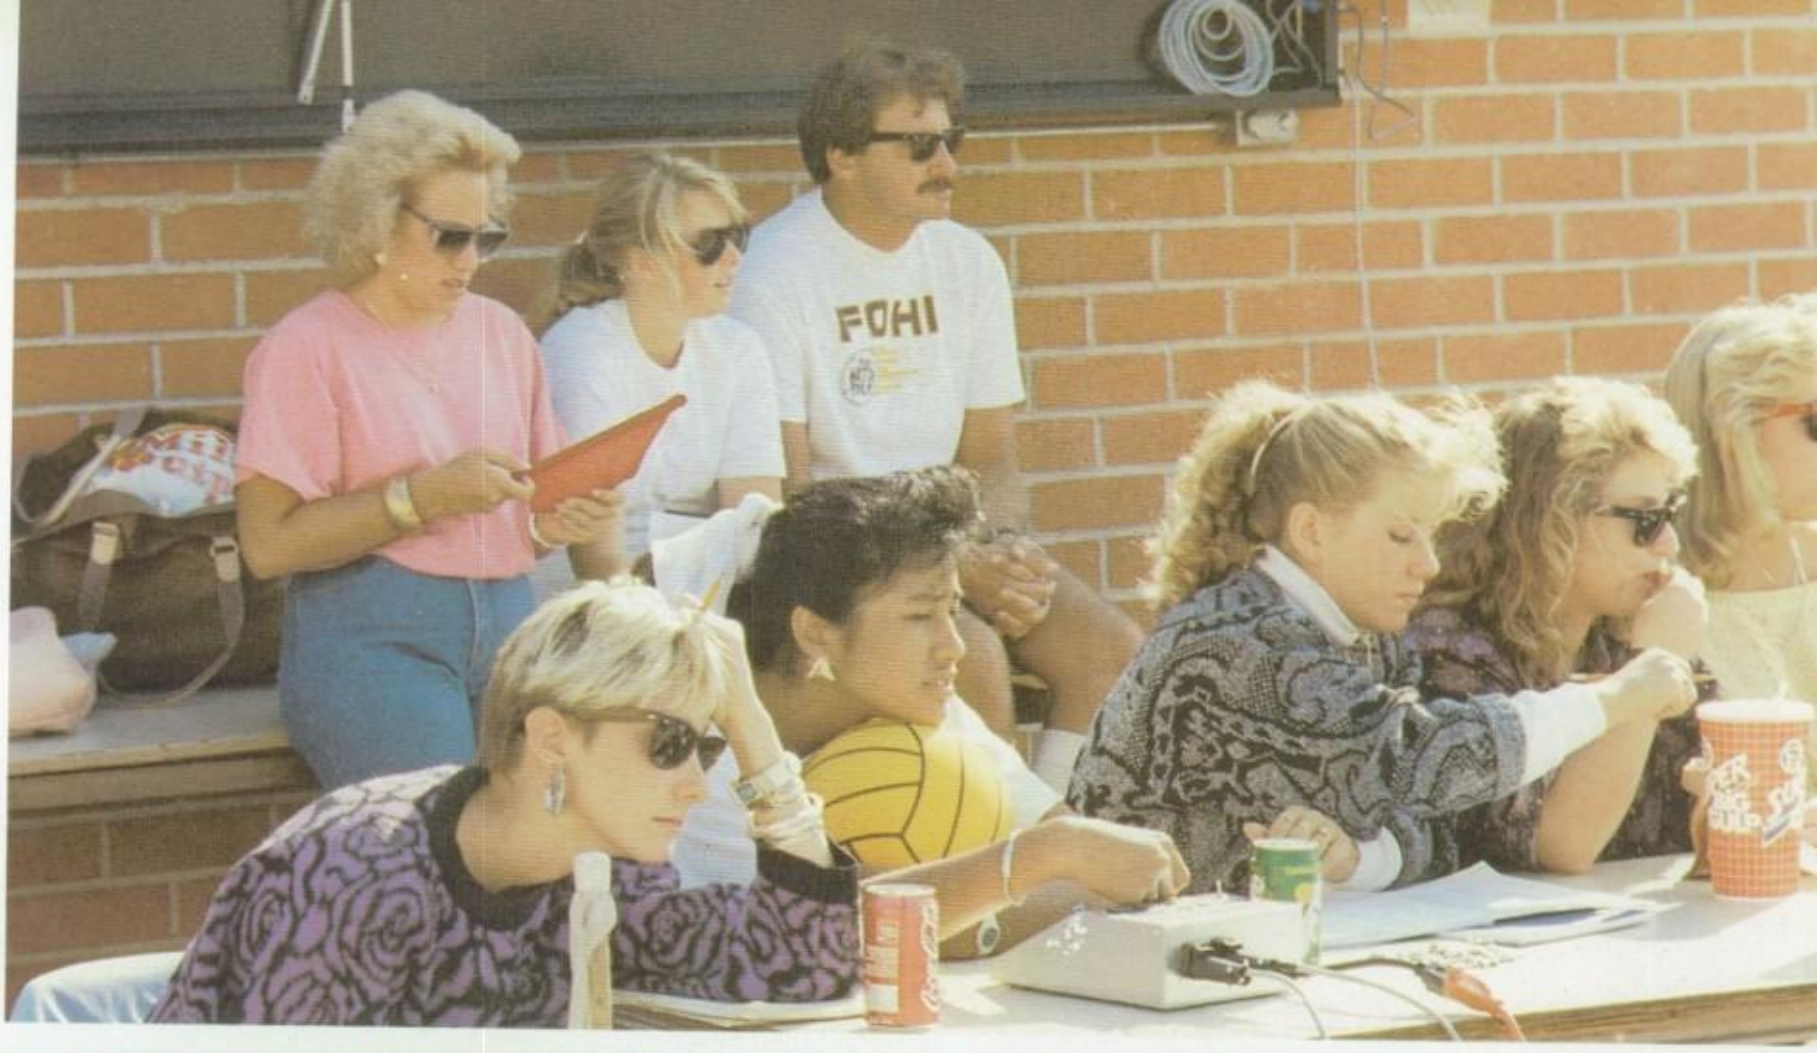
With about 3,000 students enrolled, the school had to add about 20 new teachers, and eight new buildings which made up Fohi South. Mrs. Rager was not surprised by the large number of students and said she had expected at least 100 more.

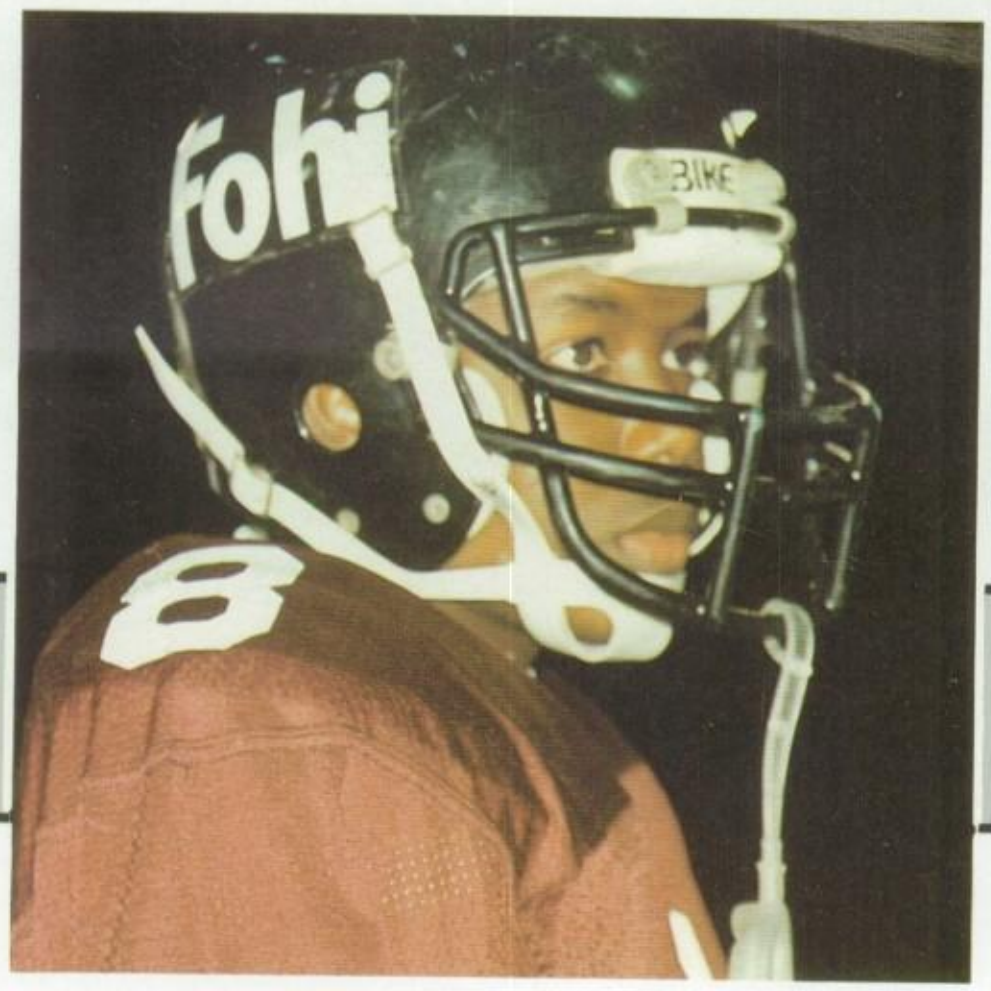
Another problem that began the school year was a lack of books. A significant number of the books ordered never arrived, which meant that many kids had to go without books for as long as the first quarter. Mrs. Peggy Crowell, head librarian, said that we ran out of books mainly in the English Department; however, some math students had to be moved to a lower class because they did not have books to keep up with the rest of their class. The school ordered more books in February so that they can be sure to get all they need for next year on time.

Mrs. Rager said she would rather have the school population growing than declining, and in the next few years there should be a ninth grade high school as well as additions to Fohi South.

The growing numbers of students was due, in part, to the new housing projects in the area. Southridge was one of the largest of the new developments, and schools are supposed to be built for Southridge residents soon. Damon Chero, a sophomore, said that there should be more of a variety of classes at Fohi South, and more trailers to accommodate them, so we could move more kids.

▼ Southridge Village is just one of the several new communities that have added more students to our school population.
▼ As lunchtime ends, students gather around waiting for the shuttle buses to Fohi South.
▼ Walkways become crowded as more students arrive at school.





▲ Avid water polo fans devoted a great deal of time to watching the exciti water sport.
◀ Varsity volleyball was united as a team as well as on the court.

▲ Fellow teammates cheered the other players on from the sidelines.
◀ Walter Issac, with a grim look of determination, vows to make the next pa good one.

SPORTS

Sports make school a blast.

Education not only involves writing, reading, calculating, test taking, and homework; it also involves student participation in extra-curricular activities. In order to insure that students receive a well-rounded educational experience, Fontana High School provides just the element needed to balance the learning process. A big part of this balancing factor is the sports program here at the school, and during the 1986-87 school year, it couldn't be beat!

Although the campus was divided the students were still united in many ways, one of which was through sports team membership. No matter what the sport happened to be, every team seemed to possess a magical, unifying quality that kept them going at all times. That final touchdown in the last few seconds of the quarter, that nearly impossible goal that broke the tied score, that awesome serve that set the ball rolling — none of this could have been accomplished by any one team member without the strong support of the rest of the players.

When the games were over, won or lost, the players would converge to the center of the field or court to accept the victory or defeat as one unified body. One player never won or lost the entire game by himself. Team effort produced team results.

Coaches were the central figures of support in the unifying process. They bore the weight of the team's accomplishments and complaints, and they worked to prevent any division in fellow support among the team members. The coaches were respected and sometimes hated; but in the end, they were nearly always loved for not letting the team bonds become broken.

Fontana sports divided, they would have fallen, but united they stood, tall and proud.

The mighty Steeler men were quite im pressive on the field during the '86 foo ball season. Spirits were always hig as were hopes for many victories.

Spirit ribbons were sold by t Cheerleaders to boost enthusiasm f those great Friday night games. Tea players worked hard to keep that winni spirit alive and well throughout the we and into the big games by attending da film sessions during lunchtime. Lunch many have been a pretty big thing to fo sake, but almost nothing could compare the feeling of entering a game w prepared and spiritually boosted.

Head coach Dick Bruich commente "All of the team got along great. We didn have just one valuable player because w played as a team, and one person was more valuable than the next. I think th had fun playing football, and that made fun for the coaches, too."

While the Steeler men were divided playing positions, they were united achieving one goal: having a good ol' tim while shooting for success.

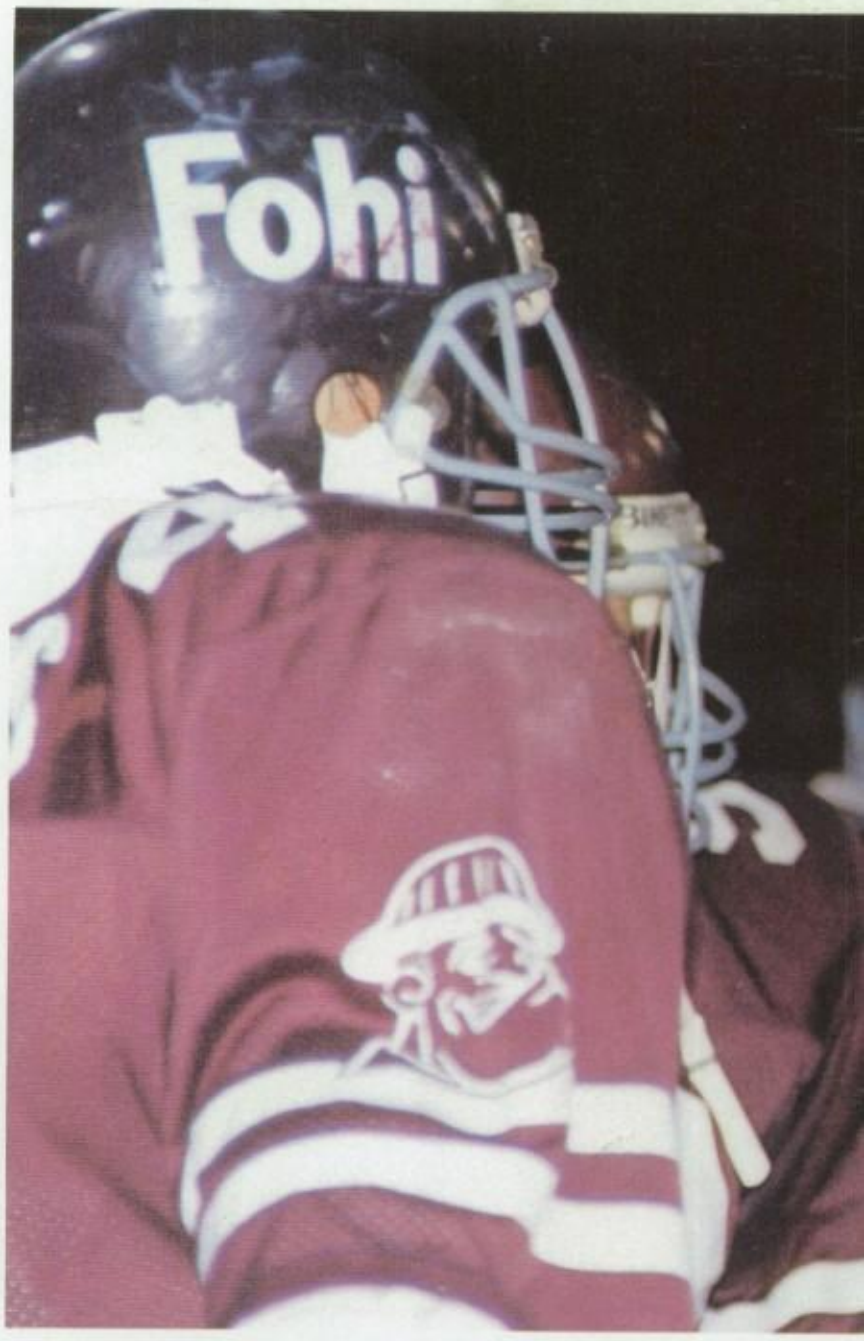
Making the Grade



With only two starters returning, running back — safety Keith Washington and fullback-defensive and Steve Lee, the outlook of the '86 football season was pretty cloudy. Fontana lost most of its main men when graduation rolled around, and it also lost one of its key players, Greg Colbrunn, to knee trouble. A few doubted that the Steelers could overcome these obstacles, but many were optimistic about the future, and boy were these optimists on target.

The Steeler record up until the Homecoming match with Eisenhower, was 7-1 overall, and 5-0 in the CBL. The one loss was to L.A. Banning, a team ranked #7 in the nation. Apparently, FOHI, no longer as big, was instilled with speed and stamina that were projected by some of the "hidden" players.

Derrick Malone, halfback, was king of the Colton game in which the Steelers subdued the Yellowjackets 28-14. Malone, a junior, ended up with 212 yards on only 12 carries.

Other key players were Kurt Bruich, wide receiver; quarterbacks, Mike Spinuzzi and Chris Hancock; wing back Edrian Oliver; defensive linemen, Matt Helsius, Vince Rollins, Joe Mariani, Chalen Tessitore.

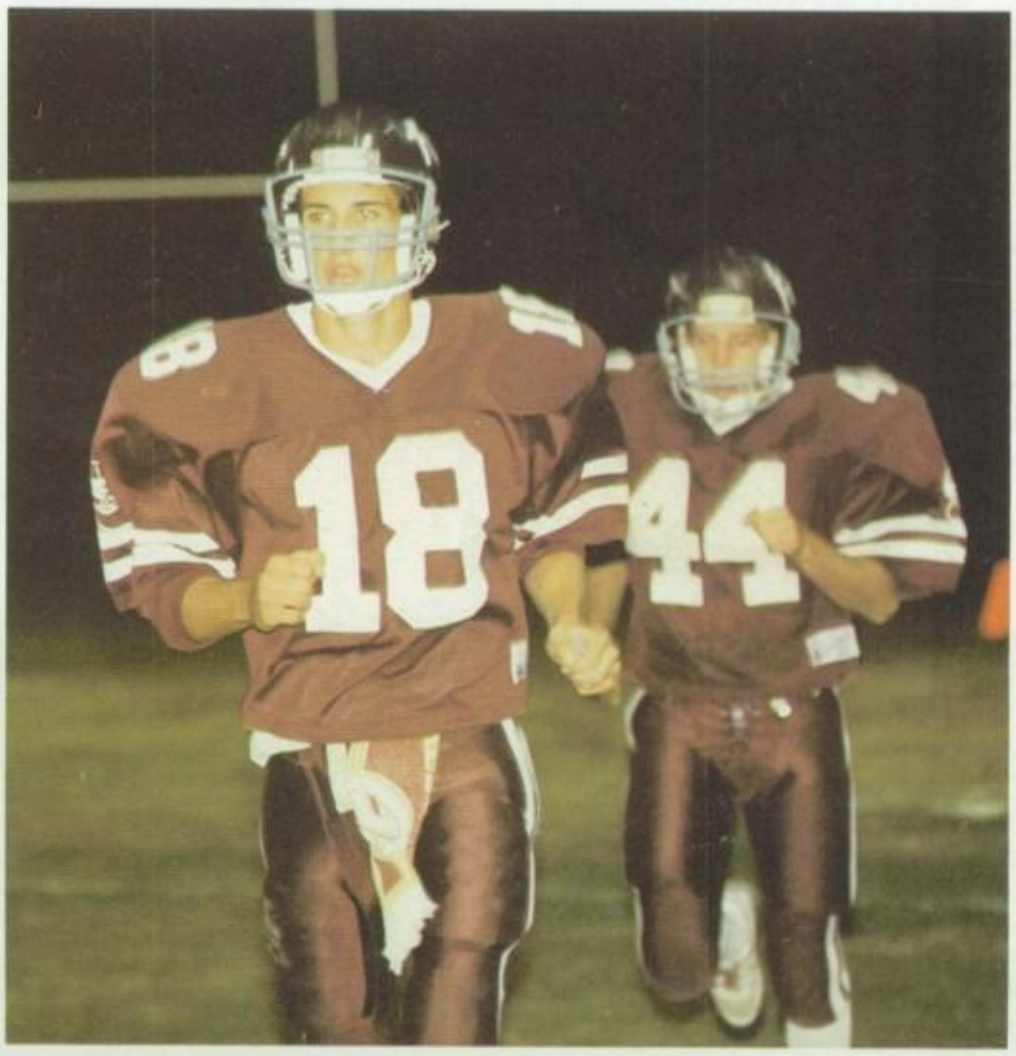
Another important aspect of the '86 season was the recruitment of the wing-T offense, where finesse was more important than size. And although physical size was limited, the Fontana High School football team of 1986 proved to be as big and bad as ever!

▼ Mike Spinuzzi and Mark Bedwell run onto the field for preparation for FOHI's game against South Delta (B.C.).
▼ Edrian Oliver, defensive back, brings his Ike opponent down with authority.

BREAKING AWAY AWESOMELY



Lance Ozier brings down his South Delta opponent.

Being a member of the football team is not as easy as it may seem. Players are required to meet certain grade and attendance qualifications together with giving it their all on the field. It was a tough job during the '86 season, but somebody had to do it.

Senior Alfred Ramirez, defensive end, pointed out, "I had to maintain a 2.5 G.P.A. and I had to attend all of my classes. If we didn't go to even one class, we couldn't play that week."

Rob Ramirez, also a senior and a defensive end, added, "Football is my sport. I've played football since Pop Warner. We had to attend practice each and every day in order to play that week."

Lance Rondeau, senior and defensive back, stated, "I had to stay out of any type of trouble."

The Steeler men worked hard to maintain high standards throughout the football season. Because of their hard work and dedication in striving for perfection, Fontana High School had an awesome football team in which pride could be shown. And pride was shown each and every Friday night game when Steeler fans crowded the stadium, whether at home or away, to pledge their devotion and loyality to a crew of the mightiest men on campus.

Goes for the goals and winds up the season with a spectacular finish

▲ Bob Gall loses control of the ball.

"We had a great team. We played with determination and heart. We were the team with a destiny." This statement came from Jr. George Belcher when asked how he felt about water polo. The team had an excellent season, ending with a 15-6 record and entering CIF Finals. Coach Jim Dopf remarked that he was very pleased with the overall attitude of the team, which did better than many teams of pasts years have done.

Another plus was the players had their own pool to work out in. Last year, the pool had been under construction. Joey Moss, a Sr., said "This year was an improvement because we had our own pool to work in, especially during the summer." Sr. Bob Gall finished Joey's statement by adding, "The team showed an overall improvement in effort and skill!"

"I like water polo because it is an exciting and rad sport." This is the feeling that water polo star player Mike O'Brian had when it came to his favorite sport. "The game isn't just physical; you also need the mental ability to play well." Mike played water polo during school because it was fun and challenging. When asked how he felt about graduating and not playing for Fohi anymore, he responded, "I will miss my high school team, but I will be playing in college. We've had a great team."

A Winning Conclusion

The J.V. water polo team retired with a winning season under their belt. The players showed a lot of determination and pride. Junior Hal Sims advertised water polo as "The ultimate water sport! Nothing compares to the strength and stamina needed to compete in water polo." The team was the consolation winner in a grueling tournament at Rowland. They also took second place in a tournament at Buena Park. Coach Roy Newell stated "There were a number of fine prospects and I expect them to improve into a winning varsity team in the future."

Serving a Season of Surprises

Victory Over Colton Raises Spirits

The Varsity Volleyball Team, led by Captain Marcy Campbell, enjoyed a season of pleasant surprises. To begin with, they were able to play in the east gym, which had recently had the floor redone. They were all excited to play in their "new" gym.

"I'm glad we had the chance to play in the new gym," said Marcy Campbell, senior. "Besides that, I just had a really good time. Out of the three years I've played on the team, this has definitely been the most successful. It was also quite an honor being chosen Captain."

Coach Evelyn Vance affirmed one of the factors that made this year special. "I've had a majority of these kids since seventh grade," she said. "The hours put in for practice and the determination to build the program really made for one of the best records."

Without a doubt, the team's biggest thrill was beating the undefeated Colton Yellowjackets. It was the first time in ten years that Fohi beat Colton.

"After we beat Colton," replied Diana Stern, junior, "We gained a lot more spirit and it brought the team a lot closer together."

"I'm glad the team was all good friends, like a family," said Vicki Chrysler, a junior. "We were also really lucky to have someone as good as Ms. Vance as a coach."

Doing It With Style

Because of their outstanding playing ability, Marcy Campbell and Diane Perez were chosen the season "Star Players." Their outstanding sportsmanship led the volleyball team to many victories. Coach Evelyn Vance stated, "There is something in them that gives the team security, the team depends on them." She also commented, "They do a great part in the success of the team. They're tigers on the court."

Marcy Campbell who is the team's captain felt it a great privilege to be chosen. She quipped, "We had a good year, we improved a lot. We had a good time and at the same time got the work done." Diana Perez stated, "I'm overwhelmed, extremely excited. It's definitely an honor!" Coach Vance summarized by saying "They are natural competitive young athletes and ideal girls to teach."

Dedication Reaps Rewards

Determination and a good attitude were the main reasons for the girls' JV Volleyball Team's success. The belief that "prefect practice makes perfect," was what Coach Evelyn Vance stressed.

"We have lots of fun together on and off the court, and we don't put each other down," stated Becky Robledo.

Cheryl Visyak, sophomore, replied, "Because Vance emphasizes so much on the plays, the team made it to the Alta Loma JV Tournament. We placed first out of 32 teams. I was overwhelmed with excitement when the judge announced my name as Most Valuable Player (M.V.P.)."

The JV Volleyball Team had an outstanding record. They won sixteen games and were defeated only once.

"This is the first year that the girls' JV Volleyball Team consisted of only sophomores. In addition to only being sophomores, this is the first time the team was composed of (students from) all three junior highs," commented Celeste Stone.

Once divided among the three junior highs, the girls joined together as one united team.

Pedro Medina, Star Runner

Besides breaking last year's school record on the three-mile course previously held by junior, Manuel Puentes (17:57), Pedro Medina with (16:43) as his time, was also chosen the star-runner for the Cross-Country team.

"I was really flattered at being chosen." he commented.

Pedro plans to attend a college in Nebraska and maybe, if all goes well, to try for the Olympics.

To prepare for fun or other courses, "I walked or ran through them (the courses), plus I did stretching exercises," explained Pedro. He also ran on Saturdays and played football on Sundays. "I never thought I could be so important to a team," he remarked modestly.

"We beat Redlands for the very first time!!" exclaimed Monica Lemos, Jeni King, Kim Johnson and Trish Parker energetically. Of course they were talking about the Ladies' Cross-Country team. There were seven ladies on a somewhat larger team. Kim Harrison, sophomore, broke last year's ladies' record previously held by Cathy King (22:14) with (21:46) as her time. Mr. Victor Lemos took over the much improved ladies. For the very first time these fantastic runners competed in CIF, and, boy, were they excited — so excited that even after the regular season was over, they kept right on runnin', sometimes in Jurupa Hills, other times on our track from 2 p.m. until 4 p.m. everyday.

The men's team also got a new coach. The lucky man was Mr. Mike Moon. A rather large team of twelve gentleman also practiced with the ladies every day. Pedro Medina, junior, commented, "The team was like a big family. There were several inexperienced sophomores, and I got to show them the tricks of the trade."

At the league meet, the ladies walked away with second place, and an outstanding score of 51. The men scored a fifth place with 123 points. Trish Parker, Stacey Webb, and Kim Johnson were all in the all-time top ten with third, sixth and ninth places, respectively, Pedro Medina was sixth place in the men's all time top ten.

In the men's CBL finals, Pedro Medina took fifth place, Moises Hernandes took 15th, Rubén Gonzales took 32nd, Bill Burris took 36th, James Causey took 35th, Troy Nelson took 40th, and Boone Leetang took 44th.

In the ladies CBL finals, Trish Parker took third, Stacy Webb took fifth, Kim Johnson took ninth, Cheryl Lyken took 12th, Monica Lemos took 22nd, Jeni King took 26th, and Sandy Rodriguez took 28th.

Women's Tennis Causes a Racket

With a number of new members, among them, several promising sophomore players, the Women's Tennis team set out with exciting enthusiasm for their first game against Colton early in the second week of school.

They were given a hefty schedule with two games per week, including one practice game against Ontario, on Tuesdays they had home games and on Thursdays, away games. At the start of the season, all games were away because they traveled with the volleyball team and no home games could be played on our gym floor.

Mary Manzo was most improved singles player. She started out in junior varsity in the beginning of the season and gradually worked her way to first varsity singles.

Louise Skura, junior, commented, "The team shows a lot of promise, although not having freshmen weaken us in the long run."

Junior Varsity achieved four wins and one tie.

Steelers Strive for the Top

Men's tennis ends season in a smash!

This year's Men's tennis team did pretty well considering most of the team was sophomores. Mr. Gene Jozens, the coach of the team was asked, "Was he surprised on how good the team did this year." Mr. Jozens replied, "No, not really. I have a lot of beginners and most of them start learning tennis here at the school so I have to teach them how to play and skills to compete, but we have fun learning."

When Jeremy Ray, a junior, and second year on the team was asked how losing some of their top players affect the team, he said, "We did alright. Our top six players graduated last year so we had to start over with new players. We got a lot of talented sophomores so we should be good next year.

"I think the team did pretty good considering the sophomores that came up did not have very much experience. I think next year's team will do pretty good. This year's team did good, but you can't compare it to last year's, because this year's team had lack of experience. I was surprised they did as good as they did and they improved a lot." That is what Ric Davis said when he was asked, "Were you surprised on how well the team didthis year."

Matt Ficarra, a junior, and Josh Lindsay, a sophomore, said, "They have a lot of sophomores on the team with a lot of talent and they need more practice. Next year we should be better if we keep practicing."

As the tennis season came to an end, the players had more confidence that they will do better next year, and hope that Mr. Jozens returns as coach next year.

From a Bird's-eye view,

Badminton's Efforts Peak Beyond the Net

The badminton team exerted tremendous effort toward winning during the year. Armando Chacon stated, "We have a really good attitude toward our team spirit. Everyone likes each other and that's cool."

This year's split CBL league had many competitve teams. Badminton is an Ivy League sport that has been popular with many male students. The sixteen-boy-to-twelve-girl ratio has been a change of pace from recent years. Badminton is a type of sport people get enthusiastic about once they've played.

Mrs. Vivian Oliver, the team's coach, commented, "Badminton challenges the more intelligent person to use many different strokes and to plan movements."

Shelli Beldin stated, "It's a good game. We're not just playing with birds."

The team had a little bit of experience but had a lot of enthusiasm that helped them. When asked what the most memorable moment in badminton was, Tarsha Green stated, "I must say that the team really improved compared to last year. For example, this year we have a lot more team spirit and confidence. We are also playing a lot better than we did last year due to more team spirit and everyone seems to be really friendly."

Chacon's Bombing Birdie

Badminton's Armando Chacon was chosen as the season's star player. Coach Vivian Oliver explained, "He works hard and has dedication to perfection of his strokes in the game."

Many of Armando's teammates also thought he was the ovbious choice for star player. Tarsha Green commented, "I feel team spirit, determination, and the will to want of play makes Armando play his best. I like Armando because he takes time to practice and he loves to play."

Armando modestly summed it up by saying, "I feel good about being chosen although I think my teammates deserve to be honored too."

Double Eagles Reign in Play

Golfers drive easily from tee to fairway.

Although not a terribly popular sport, golf seemed to finally gain the recognition it deserved in the 1987 season. The team, headed by Russ Taylor, had a good turnout of student golfers who were very optimistic about their golf season.

"We should be a lot better this year. We should win at least half of our games," stated Paul Preciado.

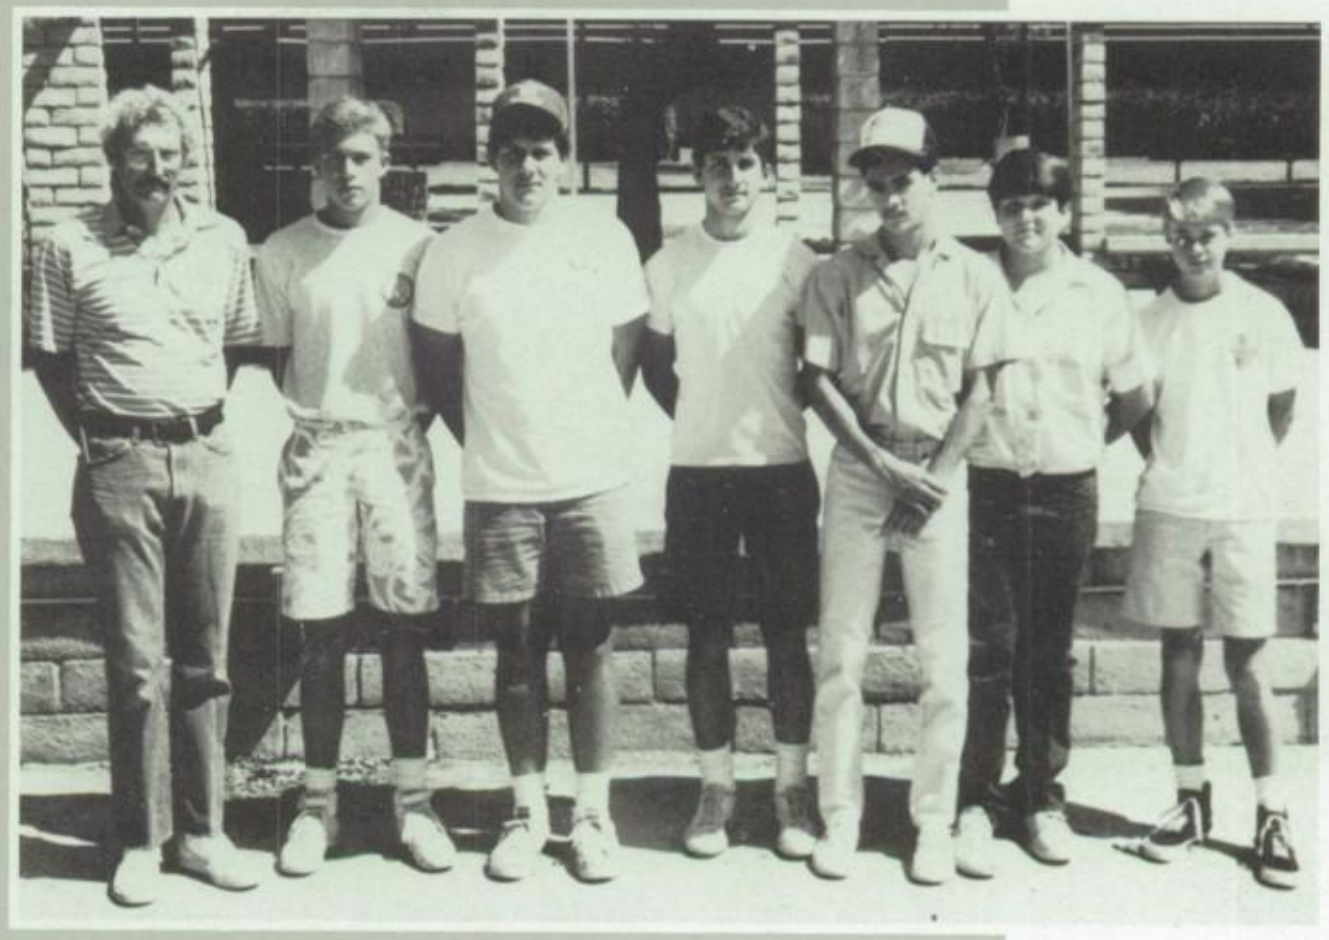
"The people are doing better this year and I think we'll do okay if we play as well in the games as we do in practice," commented Kevin McClanahan.

"It should be a lot of fun this year, because we're definitely going to play better than ever before!" exclaimed Bill Hines.

No matter how many games would be won or lost, the enire golf team would always be a bunch of winners because of the mounds of optimism that infiltrated each and every one of the team members, including Coach Taylor.

"We look to keep building our program and with the changing of the district, we plan to include ninth graders. It will be good to have freshmen participating on the team."

Coach Russ Taylor, Bill Hines, Scott Ellis, Tom Leogrande, Anthony Sclafani, Kevin McClanahan, and Eric Huber.



"Just call me 'Fore'!"

He's a dedicated and fine young man whose ability and knowledge of the sport is continually developing. I hope that he can continue the next two years to help our team. Overall, Bill has the lowest stroke average of 42 per nine holes," explained Coach Russ Taylor concerning his reasons for choosing sophomore Bill Hines as star player.

When asked how it feels to be star player, Bill responded by saying, "I felt it was a privilege due to the fact that I worked hard enough and put in extra time and effort to earn such a title."

Bill gave some advice to future star players, "All people must remember is that 'practice makes perfect.' In addition, if you want to be number one, don't give up; keep trying."

Women's Track Team Excels,

Setting a winning pace with hard work and effort.

Women's track team started at a slow pace but the members excelled at working their way to the top. The reason for their slow start was because of the shortage of members needed to work the field. The girls were enthusiastic when at a meet. Most of the track runners for the team were from this year's cross-country team.

Trish Parker stated, "I enjoyed how the girls cheered for me while I was sprinting my last lap in the two-mile relay."

The team was supported by many coaches.

Mr. Victor Lemos was the girls' and boys' long and middle distance coach. Mr. Lemos helped prepare these runners for such races as the two-mile relay, one-mile relay, and the 550 relay. Mr. Moody specialized in the girls' field events. Sprinters were organized by Mr. John Tigner.

The girls' opinions of Mr. Tigner were very positive. Camille Harris and Margie Jones boasted, "He's the meanest, but he's the best coach and is great at getting what he wants."

Coach Gary Pickett decided that there were no star players, because each member was equal. "The team is much stronger and has a very good chance of being the best," commented Senior Margie Jones.

The girls' team were a family when present at their meets. They each supported the team in their own way.

"In practice it was the quality of your work, not the quantity and in the end all the pain and hard work really pays off," exclaimed Jeni King.

Candy Negrette said, "This year's team was pretty good and fun, but you learn a lot physically, mentally, and spiritually."

Wrestlers Go For the Gold, Become CBL Champs

The wrestlers went all out with willpower, strength, might, intensity, and teamwork, and it showed. For the first time in a long time, the Fontana Wrestling team took CIF.

Last year's wrestlers didn't have a J.V. team and only had eight varsity wrestlers (which is not a full team). Due to the large number of enthusiastic sophomores and a new coaching staff, both teams were full.

Coach Ralph Burris, along with coaches Martin, Martinez, Chitwood, and Zazza, the wrestling staff guided the team through the many triumphant victories. Bill Poindexter, a senior, commented, "This year's coaches helped me develop my full potential and build up my confidence." Junior wrestler Jason Rondeau said that coming out after football was tough, but while wrestling lasted it was fun. "I enjoy wrestling because it makes you feel like you really matter, because the team needs you. Also, it's a one-on-one sport, even if the team doesn't win, you do. Losing as a team was the least of our worries this year."

This has definitely been a year to remember — for us as much as for the teams that didn't think we could do it. From the first exciting match with Colton, to the last intense match with Eisenhower, the wrestlers used their unity and spirit to make them number one.

Tracksters Start as Winners

Opening the Season With Mounds of Optimism.

As the track season started, it became apparent to the men that they would have an awesome record, and that they did.

They started their winning streak in a meet at Chino. These fantastic runners brought home first in pole vaulting, mile relay, and long jump.

Senior Keith Washington, coached by Mr. John Tignor, commented, "We were better this year than last year. We were stronger and deeper."

Junior Anthony "Muncie" Nelson, stated, "The best thing for the team was the team." This feeling may have been brought about by the fact that no matter which member of the "family" was competing, they all cheered.

Lowell Snyder, senior, commented, "We started this year the way we ended last year."

"It took a positive attitude," senior John West, explained. "Once that positive attitude was established, there was no limit."

Eric Hansen, sophomore, boasted, "The reason we did so well was because we were in good shape physically."

Under the supervision of head coach Gary Pickett, they practiced everyday on the field, except when weather prohibited it. The practice they did included running, stretching, and practicing individual events such as long jump, relays, and teamwork.

Without the coaches pushing them to do their best and work their hardest, they wouldn't have had the dicipline and skill it took to earn a winning season.

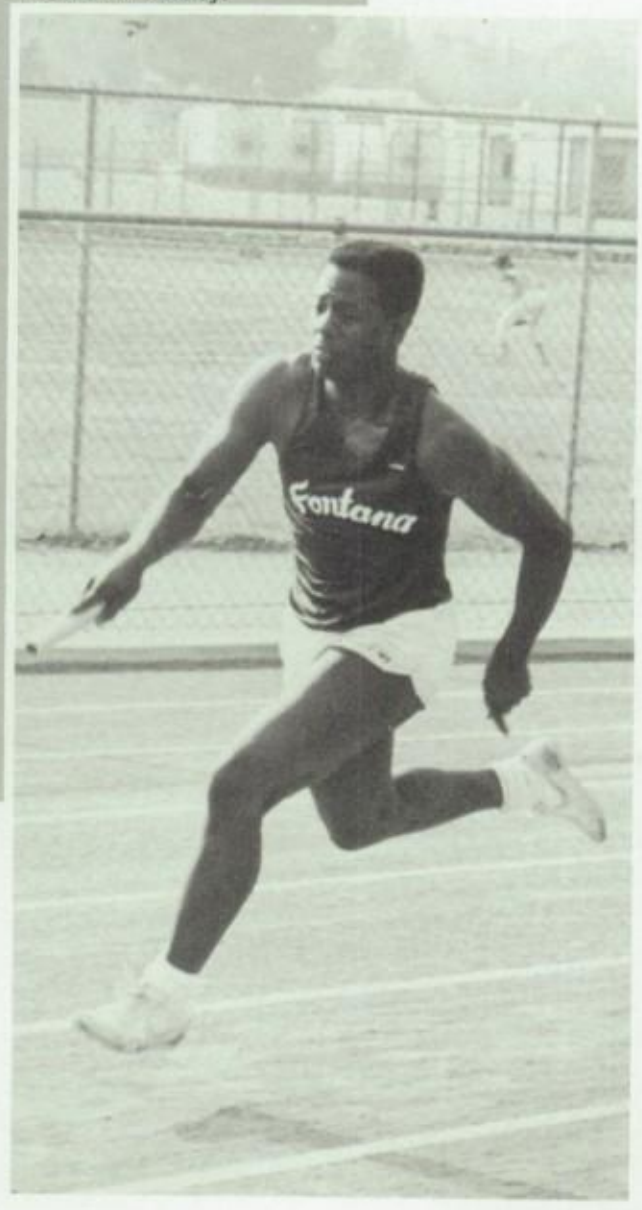
◄ Keith Washington, starts out in the mile relay, as soon as the signal is given. His experience led to great scores for the team.

◄ Putting extreme effort into his jump, Aaron O'forlea makes sure his body doesn't touch the bar.

▼ Coming around the last curve of his portion of the mile relay, Derrick Malone looks ahead to be sure the next runner is ready.



In order to get closer to the goal line and score the winning point Trish Parker steals the ball from the opponent.
Sophie Quiroz prepares to make extra points while Valerie Rojas is ready to help in case the ball does not make it into the goal. To prevent the opponent from getting near the ball, Sophie Quiroz races to get it.
Gayle Olson kicks the ball to a teammate who is not protected by a Poly opponent.

Kicking and Striving to Earn the Goal of Success

The Women's Varisty Soccer team had a variety of obstacles to overcome on the road to success due to many new players who had to adapt to their newly learned skills. In order to improve these skills the team practiced each day during seventh period until 4:30 p.m.

Jennifer Hughes, junior, commented, "It was interesting to observe the skills other teams had. I was in soccer for eight years. It was a great sport to join because it kept me in shape for other sports. The team had good sportsmanship toward other teams and amongst ourselves."

"Although our skills were not perfect, we still had a lot of fun," Valerie Rojas, junior, added.

Celina Rios, senior stated, "I enjoyed playing because it was a fun sport and it kept me in shape."

Jennifer Fountain, sophomore, said, "When we played games, we always did our best. It was a great experience to be part of the team although our skills needed improvement."

"I joined soccer because I wanted to stay in shape for track, while on the other hand I didn't want to think about the running. I also wanted to meet other people from other schools," replied junior, Trish Parker.

Kris Ganino, sophomore, stated, "We had many setbacks because the team had many inexperienced players. In addition, many people had to quit for various reasons. Once the team was well established, the season went well. We also had a lot of fun together."

Star Player
Staci Westbrook

Senior Staci Westbrook was chosen as the Women's Varisty Soccer Star Player. Staci started playing soccer about seven years ago for AYSO. When asked how she felt about being the star player, Staci replied that she enjoyed the competiveness of the sport. She also went on to say that she hoped that she would be able to play more in the future.

Staci has been involved in many more sports at Fohi, and she was also active in Student Council, holding the office of Indian Representative. Not bad for the 1986 Homecoming Queen, huh?

"We started believing in ourselves."

"Believing in ourselves," is what junior Jose Lopez thought made the difference between the Men's Soccer team's playing at the start of the season and their participation in the later games. He went on to say, "It was a build-up year for next year."

These young men were loaded with talent, but they were very "young and inexperienced," according to their coach, Mr. Dan Gonzales.

The team members thought that he was a "cool coach," and as junior Sean Stringer stated, "He gave pep talks before the games."

They practiced every non-game school day from 3:00 P.M. until 4:30 on the football field. The practices they did included sprinting and stretching, as well as actual game improving techniques.

Sean Stringer summed it all up by saying, "We played to win!"

▲ Jose Lopez and Ruben Godinez were also awarded the titles.

Obtaining Goals

Senior captain Denny O'Hara, and juniors Ruben Godinez and Jose Lopez were chosen star players of the Varsity Soccer team. Their remarkable talent, knowledge of the game, and superb know-how earned them those prestigious positions.

The three players have their own way of warming up before playing a game. Each performed a series of stretches and jogged as frequently as possible. "I juggle the ball with my feet, knees, and head to warm up," replied Denny.

Denny has been playing the game since he was a youngster of four. "My dad coached me for several years," he commented. He felt that, as a whole, this year's men, "played as a team — not as individuals."

Ruben has been playing here in the United States for three consecutive years and has also participated in soccer while in his native country, Spain. "But it was not organized soccer," explained Ruben. As for future plans, Ruben stated, "I am studying to be an engineer, and I plan to attend college. I am also planning to play soccer in college; if I am good enough and I make it, I would like to play professional soccer."

Jose has been in this sport since he was a youngster of four, too. He went into organized soccer when he was six. Thinking ahead, he commented, "I plan on playing soccer in college, I have also been thinking about playing soccer for a college in Mexico."

Lady Steelers Steal the Show to Become The CBL Champs!

The Women's Varsity Basketball team united together to achieve an outstanding season; 24-4. Besides a fantastic record, they were the Citrus Belt League Champs and went all the way to the quarter finals in the CIF play-offs. Coach Jack Willis could only say these few words to sum up his feelings, "I'm very proud of the team. They achieved a fantastic goal."

DeAnna Mincks stated, "Basketball has been a very big inspiration to me. It has influenced me to keep achieving in life as I have in basketball. I have also learned you have to put time, hard work, and energy to be the best. Basketball is not a one man team. It's a group effort. It takes time from the first string and people on the bench." "I really like working with the team a lot. They all work together on the good sportsmanship. It's really exciting having made CBL again this year, and I'll never forget the great times we had on and off the court," stated Jephrie Willis.

Male Hoopsters Play for Keeps While Staying on Top

"Fontana basketball is becoming a strong program," stated Sean Rooks, senior, "with the talent and hard work of the players, and with the excellent coaching of Tom McCluskey. Hoop Troop is number one!"

After an outstanding season, the men's basketball team had much to celebrate. With their — record, they proved to be one of the best basketball teams in the history of Fohi sports.

"I felt my best game I played was against rivals Riverside Poly," replied Steve Hickey, who played the position of off-guard. "At that game, I got the rebounds when we needed them most, towards the end of the game. That really helped the team out."

Hickey, a junior, was very pleased to be on the varsity team. It really prepared him for 1988.

"It gave me a lot of experience for my senior year," Steve said. "With only four guys returning next year, we needed all the practice we could get."

The Men's Varsity Basketball Team's year was summed up by senior Mike Flynn, who replied, "With good coaching, team unity, and spirit, we had a GREAT season."

Shooting for the Top

Sean Rooks has been chosen by Coach Tom McCluskey as the star player for Men's Varsity Basketball. When the 6' 10" 1/2" Rooks was asked how he felt about being chosen he answered, "Being chosen as a star player makes me happy because you know the people appreciate what you're doing for the team and your school. Being picked as a star player just shows that I have good teammates to work with."

Rooks, #42, practices with the basketball team four times a week as well as at home, improving his game on his own. "In practice I drill on hustling and being mentally tough," says the 245 lb. Rooks."

Rooks has been playing baketball since junior high, but he didn't start taking it seriously until ninth grade. This year he has scored a high of 31 points in a single game. Rooks' dedication has been strengthened and that accounts for his tremendous improvement. Congratulations Sean!

J.V.'s Boast Outstanding Record

The Women's Junior Varsity Basketball team ended their season with fond memories and an outstanding record. La Vetta Jones said, "In working with Junior Varsity this year, I had a lot of new challenges, and I'm looking forward to next year."

The starting five consisted of four juniors and one sophomore. Junior Kenya French was the point guard and she averaged five steals per game. Renee Palazzolo played swing and averaged nine points a game while Lonna Preston, the starting sophomore, was off guard and averaged twelve. Stephanie George started at power forward and Tanya Sage at center. Stephanie averaged six rebounds and Tanya, who averaged four, said, "The teamwork and the hard work really paid off in the end."

Tanya couldn't have been more right! The girls practiced about two hours a day, except on game days, and won the Canyon Springs Tournament at the beginning of the year. Lonna Preston was voted Most Valuable Player and Renee Palazzolo was All-Tournament.

Other players on the team were Tory Seafus at point; Alyson Burris and Laura Malnar at off guard; Tasha Porter, Michelle Batres, and Ammie Bronson at swing. Beth Clay, La Vetta Jones, and Nichelle Jordan play center, and Michelle Nolopp was the other power forward.

Coach Mike Moon transferred to Fohi from Sequoia Jr. High last year as a math teacher and also as coach of the J.V. team. He led the team to a victorious season and held high hopes for next year's season as well.

Tory Seafus commented, "Playing on the team, I've learned a lot of new plays. It's been fun working with everyone and 'Good luck to J.V. for next year.'"
"I think (basketball) is exciting. I just got interested in it in the 9th grade and I really like it a lot," replied Michelle Batres.

Coach Moon looked back on the year and said, "Good HUSTLE and good teamwork made it a very successful season."

J.V. Today . . . Varsity Tomorrow

The Men's Junior Varsity Basketball team had many ups and downs during their season. There were also a lot of memorable moments, like "An aerobatic lay up by Gino Anguiano against Eisenhower with two seconds to go," stated Tom Leogrande. They had many long, hard hours of practice to improve their playing skills, which was apparent at the end of the season with a victory over Colton. As Eli Smith commented, "In a short amount of time my basketball skills were improved so that I could be moved up to junior varsity." When asked what one of the best things about playing basketball this season was, Jim Wee stated, "The best thing about basketball was traveling and playing other schools." Gilbert Rios commented, " We could have been better if we played harder, and if we could have held on to some of the players."

The Men's Sophomore Basketball Team, through game after game, managed to keep up their Steeler Pride. Although victories were few, the whole feeling the team had was one of fun and memorable moments.

Through the season, with the one and one half hour practices whenever there weren't any games, the team's basketball skills developed. "The team as a whole was good, and now we've learned about each other's abilities," stated Onmer Terrazas.

When asked if Scott Benitez had any memorable moments, his answer was his foul outs every game, but his most memorable moment was getting thirteen points against Eisenhower himself.

The team had nothing but praise for Coach Bill Bray. "The best things about being in basketball were being a member of the Fohi sports program, meeting people, and seeing new schools," said Ti Chhean.

Rulers of the Diamond,

Lady Steelers Complete a 14-Karat Season

The women's varsity softball team had a great year. Their hopes were high and their goals were in sight from the beginning of the season.

Right fielder Trish Mercado stated, "I believe that this year's varsity softball team has the makings of a championship team because we had many players coming back from last year. The coaching by Mr. Youmans, Mr. O'Keef and Mr. Bruich was great and I am truly grateful to them for taking the time to improve our skills."

Third baseman Krista McClanahan said, "I know we can go all the way if we work hard enough."

The success of the Lady Steelers was largely due to the experience and knowledge of the returning lettermen. Most of the infield was made up of experienced players. Some of them were Kristen Bruich, Krista McClanahan, Diana Perez, and Vicki Rojas. These players were used to working together and they displayed that on the field.

The team practiced frequently during seventh period as well as after school. The dedication of the ladies during practice accounted for much of their success.

The softball team had a tremendous year winning 18 out of 20 games during the season and winning the Citrus Belt League Title.

Fohi women's softball has always been one of the most successful sports to come out of Fohi. It is wonderful to see that the tradition is being carried on, allthe way into the CBL championship. Congratulations!

◄ First baseman Vicki Rojas gets rid of the ball after getting her opponent from Moreno Valley out.

Keeping the Average High

This year the Fontana Women's Varsity Softball Team has two star players. They are catcher Kristen Bruich and pitcher Felicia Quiroz.

Kristen Bruich is a senior and she plans to attend Loyola Marymount University in the fall on a Softball Scholarship. She has a batting average of 516 and 20 runs batted in. On top of being successful defensively she is also very tough offensively.

Felicia Quiroz is a junior who came to Fontana High this year from Rim of the World High School is Lake Arrowhead. Felicia is the starting pitcher for the Lady Steelers with a record of 16 and 1. Felicia also contributes to the team with her modest batting average of 364.

Together these two ladies are invincible, on the field or in the classroom. They have many accomplishments under their belts and I am sure that there are many more good things to come. Good luck in the future Kristen and Felicia.

◄ Coach Hernandez grins while he goes to congratulate his team for a successful season.
▼ Chris Hancock throws to 1st baseman, Alex Elizondo to pick off the opponent.

Steeler Pride is Contagious;

Varsity Men Slide Through Season Proudly

The 1987 Men's Varsity Baseball team started the season with a 7-6 victory over Colton. The Steelers success continued throughout the season. For these baseball players it was a very memorable season. Due to the many long and hard hours of practice. Many homeruns were hit, many bases were stolen and many great plays were made throughout the season. The team consisted of 13 seniors and 9 juniors. Betweem them they put their many talents together and had a winning season. Also with the help of Greg Colbrunn and Mike Sylvester leading the team in homeruns and RBI's.

Scott Donnelly stated, "We had a great team because we worked together." Todd Dickerson commented, "If we continue to work hard we will have a successful season."

Steve Solano, "I enjoyed playing on the 1987 team, we worked hard and had a lot of fun too." Second baseman David Santiago commented, "Our goal for this year is to strive to be the best we can, to make it to the CIF playoffs." It was apparent at the end of the season that this baseball team was truely a team of champions.

The Steelers played in the Santa Ana Elks Baseball Tournament and placed 6th out of 16 different schools throughout the Santa Anna area.

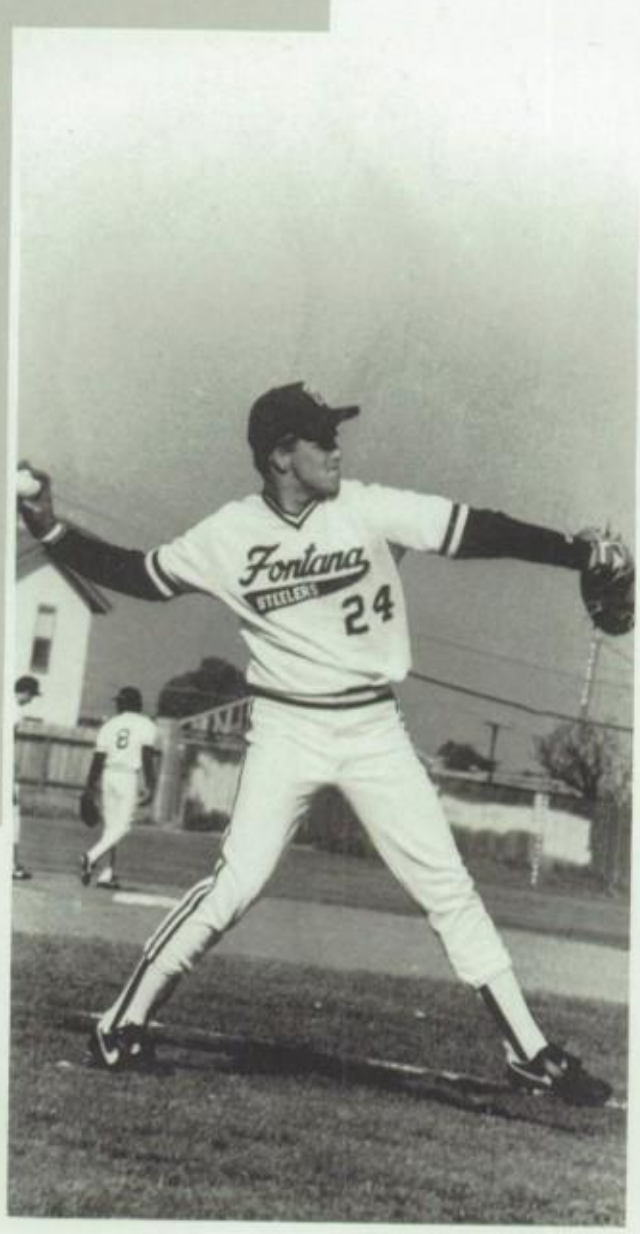
Colbrunn Has What It Takes

Yes, Greg Colbrunn has what it takes. This 3-year varsity letterman and 3-year all-CBL and CIF 3rd baseman definitely has it. He has been playing baseball since the age of six, from little league to high school, though he hopes to go much further than that. Greg's future plans are to go to Stanford and earn a major in business; he also hopes to be drafted out of college to play professional baseball. Besides his baseball credits, he has also received the honors of all-CIF in his junior year of football. He has hit 20 home runs in his three years at Fohi. He also carries a 3.7 GPA.



◄ After hitting a homerun during the game again Bloomington, Tina Tennison tosses the bat aside to r in the winning point.
▼ Coach Tom McCluskey completed his second ye coaching the J.V. softball team.

Swinging for Victory

Swinging for victory was the goal of the J.V. softball team.In order to succeed in their goal, they practiced each day from 2 p.m. to 4 p.m.

In addition to being a part of school activities, the team prepared the girls to be part of the varsity team. Junior Marlena Hand expressed her reasons for being part of the team, "I've been playing softball for five and a half years, and I wanted an opportunity to be part of the J.V. softball team."

Tina Tennison, junior, added, "I tried out for softball because I've been playing for six years, and I wanted to improve my skills."

"Since I played softball for many years, I decided to try out for the team. I also wanted to be part of the school activities and sports," stated sophomore Nyoka Ackley."

Junior Stacie Colonga, said, "I think that we had a pretty good team this year."

Coach Tom McCluskey commented, "I feel we had an excellent year, and many of the girls will work on their skills for next year's varisty team."

Although the J.V. and varsity squads were divided into two separate teams, they united together to cheer each other on to victory.

Row 1: Margely Lara, Hillarie Reed, Marilyn Randall, and Nyoka Ackley. Row 2: Wendi Westbrook, Tina Tyrell, Gonzalez, Crystal Strong, Jennifer Carter, Tnaia Vasquez, and Gina Mendoza. Row 3: Coach McCluskey, Yvette Jua nie Baker, Chris Yniguez, Marlena Hand, Michelle Anderson, Aimee Bronson, Geneanne Hendry, Tina Tennison, An Colunga.

◄ Tina Tennison shows fierce determination at the plate.
◄ The catcher from Moreno Valley is ready to catch a strike ball; however, the words "What a hit!" crosses her mind when Marlena Hand made a home run.

Name Continues Strong

J.V. baseball players early predicitons concerning the outcome of their season were pretty accurate. For example, before the season began, Orbelio Rodrigues stated, "With the great coach and the hardworking practices, I think we will do really well."

Coach Bob Boul was pleased with the outcome of the season. "Fontana baseball has always had a good name; and, with the season we performed, that name will be carried on," he commented.

"Junior varsity has prepared all of us to be the best varsity players we can possibly be for next year," replied Joe Leyva.

Front row: O. Rodriquez, F. Muniz, R. Ruiz, S. Ybarra, D. Garcia, J. Gee, J. Leyva. Back row: Coach Boul, D. A

▲ With all the wins the J.V. team had, Challen Tessitore still had time to joke around.
► Chris Ybarra helps aid the victory of Alta Loma with a triple.
► John Beck and Eugene Angiano, while rooting for their team, have time to show us what it's like in the backstop.

Steeler Sophomores Get it Together

ront row: B. Ehrlich, S. Ybarra, H. Flores, S. Archuleta, L. Sosa, B. Spinuzzi, D. Garcia, G. Attaway. Back row: Coach Williams, E. Lambrich, K. Van Noy, C. Ramirez, B. Otterman, J. Gee, F. Muniz, R. Ruiz, J. Jarmillio, Coach Bray.

The sophomore baseball team was developed to help the tenth graders become acquainted with the way things are run in high school ball. Throughout the year, they practiced, won or lost, and maybe even became injured, all in order to prepare for the varsity team. At first, the winning or losing might not have mattered to the sophomores. However, by the time they are seniors, these ballplayers will have the strength and school spirit to take them all the way.

Difference in Sport Arouses Interest of Uncommon

"It wasn't a common sport, not a lot of people went out for the team and stuck with it. I got more practice in less time and more attention from my coach and other divers," explained Kathy Novikoff on the reason she joined the diving team.

The team practiced in the pool during seventh period athletic P.E. They practiced under the direction of Mr. Jim Doph. "I enjoyed coaching diving," he stated. "I learned how to do it through the pain of other divers. I told them something, if they wiped out, then it was wrong."

David Patterson commented, "It was a fun sport. There is no other sport." Many of the other members on the team felt the same way. The feeling may have led to the success of the team as a whole. They learned that team work, encouragement and support can make the difference between a losing team and their team.

Junior Amy Van Blankenstein, commented, "Every new dive was a challenge." Emil Velasquez replied, "I joined the team because it was different from everything else. It takes a lot of discipline."

Diving's Foursome

Marci Cambell, Rick Greg, Kathy Novikoff, and Bob Gall were chosen as the star players for the diving team. Their ability to enter the water causing as little splash as possible, and experience in perfecting dives earned them the positions. All four of the excellent divers are seniors, and have been on the team since they were sophomores. Marcy Cambell and her pals were overwhelmingly excited at receiveing this prestigous title and honor. "It makes all the effort and hard work worth it," she commented.

◄ Daniel Gomez swallows the last of his fears before he leaps off the high dive into a backward dive.
▼ Kathy Novikoff thinks about what she would be able to do to perfect the dive she just performed.

Winning Water Babies

Once again, the Fohi swim team made a big spash in sports. Another year filled with determination and pride has gone by.

Coached by Roy Newell, the swim team finished with a record of 10-3. They participated in the Ramona Sprint Meet, the Eisenhower Invitational, and the Hemet invitational, taking third, fifth, and second places, respectively.

Practices were demanding. Some took place early in the A.M. (that's right, before 2nd period!), during seventh period, and after school.

Valerie Hochevar, senior, stated, "I'm sad that this was my last year of swimming for Fohi. I hope that I will continue to swim after graduation."

The CBL Swimming Finals took place at Don Lugo High School, on May 7. The Steelers took fourth place.

The women's swim team had a very great year. The dedication, devotion, and determination expressed by the girls made for a very rewarding season.

Sheri Stockham, a sophomore, replied enthusiastically, "It was my first year on the swim team. One special thing about it was that it's a varsity sport; that makes it especially great for me, because it means I got my letter when I was still in tenth grade. In all, I had a super time on the swim team. The competitions were a lot of fun and really exciting sometimes. I can't wait until next year!"

The men's swim team worked hard for a successful season. With the many practices they held, they strove for one of their best records in Fohi swimming history.

"It was great," Jason Edmundson, senior, stated. "I couldn't believe how well we did."

They certainly deserve the recognition given to them for a terrific season.

FACULTY

The students at FOHI weren't the only ones to experience the changes brought about by the 1987 school year. Faculty members had to adjust to the new year by getting used to the new FOHI South campus, and by also becoming familiar with the new attendance system. These people played an important part in maintaining a peaceful and pleasant aura on both campuses as the 1987 feeling of "Divided Yet United" prevailed.

Reactions to the FOHI South campus were as follows:

"It's a nice place, but I wouldn't want to teach part time at FOHI and part time at Fort Apache. The real results will not be seen for five to ten years as the district grows out to its full size." — Mr. Gruber.

"Seems to be a good idea. Bus transportation needs to be worked on. FOHI South helps to ease the overcrowding here at FOHI." — Mr. Podrasky.

Just as many of the students had mixed feelings about the attendance system placed into effect, so did a few faculty members:

"As far as record keeping, it's easier. Students who are tardy spend more time in class and not standing in line at the tardy window as they did last year. That's good! However, it has taken a quarter to catch up with those who are habitually tardy and to obtain information we need from the computer." — Mr. Deitrick.

When asked whether or not the attendance system was living up to its expectations, Mr. Mrosko commented, "Maybe not great expectations, but a valiant effort is being put forth."

Mr. Haney, popular substitute teacher, said, "Yes, it is living up to its expectations, but it is hard on a few to keep track of the students."

Divided opinions concerning the 1987 school year were evident, but also evident was the unity of all the faculty members to make the best of all of the different aspects of the school scene.

JoAnne Kingsbury enjoys her job as an attendance secretary.

Putting It All Together

The difficult task of running and operating FOHI in 1986-'87 fell into the hands of five very efficient and experienced people. When asked what it took for the successful execution of their jobs, the follwing responses were given:

Mrs. Rager — "I think a successful principal is one who is able to work co-operatively with teachers, students and parents. The principal leads by example and allows the teachers to teach their classes and have input into the running of the school. A good principal is able to get the necessary funds to run the school properly."

Mr. Martin felt that he needed, "... the ability to work successfully with people and a thorough knowledge of instructional practices and school curriculum."

Mr. Micallef — "My job consists mainly of working with students and teachers, helping each to solve any conflicts. I make sure everyone will have a safe, and hopefully enjoyable educational experience. I will continue to improve the buildings and grounds so that the sudents' aesthetic experiences will be beneficial as well. My office is open to students at all times and I will gladly help them to solve any conflicts, or they can just stop by and say, 'Hello'."

Mrs. Pine — "I must assist students in selecting courses that lead directly to skills for earning a livelihood. Students are encouraged to do long-range planning. It is a highly accepted theory that the person most likely to succeed is the one who knows where he/she is going and what it takes to get there."

Mr. Welch thought it necessary to "... have an outstanding staff to work with. I have the best secretary in the school district! You have to be able to see the good potential in every student you work with in order to make good educational decisions for them."

Making FOHI Worthwhile School to Attend

Mrs. Parker counsels with a disgruntled parent over a student's schedule changes.

Some of the most important people on campus during the school year took up occupational residence in tiny rooms in the Guidance office. The counselor's offices were continually buzzing with some sort of excitement generating from student concerns. The care and understanding dealt to the students of FOHI by these remarkable people made FOHI a worthwhile school to attend.

What makes a counselor's job worthwhile? The follwing are comments from a few peacemakers:

"All of the lovely people I work with make my job enjoyable. Working with high school kids keeps you young. I've done it for 30 years — I guess I'm hooked on education," beamed Mr. Howe."

Mr. Redd, a counselor of 22 years, felt that his job was made worthwhile simply by, "Helping people!"

In her soft, sweet way, Mrs. Biggs commented, "I enjoy working with students."

Mr. Armstrong's job was made worthwhile by, ". . . The dealing and exchanges with students in being able to assist them with their problems and the goals they have. The bottom line is that students make the job worthwhile. If it weren't for the students, the job would be extremely dry. For the most part, it is a postive thing."

"Most Memorable Experience?"

"I was working with a group of students that had failed the writing portion of the proficiency test. It was the first time I had ever taught that class. We worked so much together and became very close. I told them all to eat a candy bar before the test; then on the day of the test, they all came by and waved their candy bars as they passed my room. When they all passed their tests, I was so happy I cried. They all stayed with me during lunch.

"Most Memorable Experience?"

"I was having trouble motivating my students Only about 10 percent read the novel they were given (after having it three months), and in general, the students complained of being bored and were convinced that the study of English had little "real value" in their lives. That was just before the Christmas break. Then, my fifth period advanced English class gave me a plaque with the poem "What Is a Teacher?" Talk about a morale booster! Students do care, and as a teacher that's all the motivation I need."

"Most Memorable Experience?"

"There was one time when I hid inside a large cardboard box which was inside my room. It had been used for file cabinets or something. Anyway, I punched a small peephole in it and got inside of it before anyone came in. Everybody came in and sat down. Pretty soon, they started looking around. Wondering where the teacher was. After a minute or two, I threw the box off and yelled, "AHA — Gotcha!" The girls screamed and one or two other teachers came running in to see what was going on.

"One day Cindy Davis brought two students to the office that she had observed out in the metal building making love. Cindy was drawn to the building by strange noises, and went to investigate. After she made them get dressed, she brought them to the office. The two students just couldn't realize why everyone was so upset with them. After all, isn't that what everyone does at school during brunch?"

"On another occasion, a student rushed into the office screaming that someone was after her. That someone showed up shortly thereafter and bashed her in the head with a two by four. The student was knocked unconscious, and we had to administer first aid until the paramedics arrived. The student was in the hospital for several days with her head split open. There were two other secretaries and myself in the office at the time of the incident. It was a very scary situation, and we had to work very quickly."

— Patti Paluzzi

"Last year on graduation day, we had a lady come into the office wearing a black graduation gown. She said she was going to get married, but first she had to graduate. We later found out that she took the robe from one of the counselor's offices, and left 'all' of her clothes on the floor behind the door. Security ended up taking her home. She was a very confused person."

— Cindy Mandy

"One day a slightly demented lady came in off of the street looking for U.F.O.'s. I couldn't convince her that I couldn't help her, so I took her to the library. Peg (Crowell) helped her!"

— Judy Richardson

"In my first year of teaching, I had to administer a swat to a stout student for willfull disobedience of authority, and smoking. Before being called to the office for the punishment, the student went to the gym and borrowed five towels to insert into his pants in order to ease the shock of the paddle. When delivering the swat, he didn't flinch. Two days later, he told me of the trick, but was never disrespectful to me again."

— Jeff Griffith

"During 1976-77 school year, I had approximately 15 students in an advanced physics class. The course covered the equivalent of two semesters of college physics. The class was a joy to teach and many of those students are working scientists and engineers today."

"When I was a first year teacher back in Michigan, it was the late 60's and a race riot broke out after school. The kids went from room to room breaking windows and setting trash on fire. The National Guard had to be called in to fly over the school. And the next week, guards were kept in the halls for protection."

"My first day of work when I first saw the library and Mrs. Crowell wanted to know, 'Who are you?' P.S. I am very glad I'm working here!"

— Paula Duke

"One warm spring morning, a few years back, I inadvertently left the rear door of the library open and went to the far end to shelve some books. When I heard a noise at the counter, I turned and was greeted by the sight of a large, burley, bearded, unkept man. Being alone on campus at 6:15 a.m., I tried to remain calm and said, 'May I help you, sir?' He replied gruffly, 'I wanna type.' I searched for an answer and finally told him that the typewriters were all broken. That proved to be the wrong answer, because then, in a louder and much more agitated voice, he said, 'Then gimme some paper!' I hastily gave him some paper, guided him to the rear door and pointed him toward the business buildings saying, 'I'm sure they have an extra machine over there.' I pushed him out of the door and pulled it tightly shut."

From her first experience in the tenth grade, Bessy has reached out for the highest honors, won scholarships, and confounded the Citrus Belt Speech Region. Watching her progress has been my most memorable experience of the past twenty-four years."

A Few Quick Glances at Some Other Very Special FOHI People

Typing tests, bulletins, and special letters, making copies, making coffee, and offering cheery dispositions were only a few of the many and varied activities that were dutifully carried out by FOHI secretaries on a daily basis.

Bernadine Child was always on the go. Her hands seemed to be constantly dancing on the typewriter keyboard as she typed each day's bulletin.

Rose Baumann was kept busy by Science teachers in constant need of lab dittos.

Jean Adams always kept the coffee pot full for English teachers in need.

Virginia Bodnar was quite efficient in keeping up with her many obligations as Mr. Welch's secretary.

These "miracle workers" were very important in keeping FOHI alive.

Diligently Seeking to Unite Fontana Schools into a Body of Top Achievers

According to Mr. Anthony Lardieri, superintendent of schools, the basic function of the school board is to establish policy and to see that policy carried out. As newly appointed superintendent, he felt that his most difficult task was , "... trying to remain primarily an educator, while handling pressures from other areas. This is especially true in Fontana at this time of explosive growth. Much of the time is taken up by planning for new schools, the purchase of land, finding funding for new facilities, and similar problems."

Mr. Lardieri did enjoy, however, "... several things, including being on the cutting edge of decision-making and being given the opportunity to try to make a difference."

School board members had their comments to offer, also:

Mr. John Piazza, Board President, who enjoyed being able to have an effect on the community, stated, "If America has a future, it is bound up in the education of the youth of our country."

Mr. Wayne Ruble , Board Clerk, proudly piped, "We have the best educational program in the area."

Mr. Tom Rabone, who was pleased to see progress toward the future, felt that, "Wanting to serve the public is one of the most important functions of being a member of the school board."

Mrs. Dicksie Spolar, although finding it difficult to stick to what she believed in while knowing that those she worked with didn't share her convictions, enjoyed the feeling of accomplishment she received as a board member. She had the following to offer, "When you're faced with a difficult task, start by doing what is necessary, rather than what is possible, and suddenly you're doing the impossible."

Mr. William Tunney, soft at heart, found it difficult to face such areas as expulsions and telling people that their jobs may be eliminated. He gratefully enjoyed being involved with students, and expressed, "If you slip, don't give up. Keep climbing 'til you get to the top, and you'll see the rainbow!"

Overall, the entire school board is greatly desirous of improving and maintaining standards of quality education throughout the Fontana Unified School District.

SENIORS

The senior year is a culmination of the many years of learning experience that seniors have undergone, not only in the schools, but in the home also.

Senior Class members have finally reached a peak in their lives, where accomplishments may be looked back upon and remembered. For some, graduation is the very top of the mountain of education, while for others, it serves as only the stepping-stone in the pursuance of further education.

The senior year is a time for the graduates to shine. And shine they did! The 1987 graduates were almost too hot to handle as they went to school day in and day out, paving their ways toward the great commencement ceremony. They were the most respected students on campus, not because they were "just seniors," but because they were "an awesome bunch of seniors!" Academically, athletically, socially, you name it, and the '87 grads were always the tops in any category!

Naturally, not everyone knew one another, but this division in acquaintance did not in any way hinder the class' unity in pride and devotion to FOHI. The Senior Class was like one big, happy family that remained united in Steeler spirit.

The seniors spent a great deal of their time reflecting back upon their lives and were pleased at discovering that many memories were pleasant ones indeed! Like the time they did this, and the time that happened, and so on. So very many things had taken place, and now came the time to push all of the memories back even a little further, as they prepared to make that giant step into the "real world."

The yearbook staff decided to step back into the history pages of senior lifetimes, and pull out bits of interesting moments that the seniors had experienced at some point and time in their lives. We asked them, "WHAT HAS BEEN YOUR MOST EMBARRASSING MOMENT?"

A Glimpse of the Real Thing . . . a Year Before Its Time!

As the 1986 school year came to an end, many juniors looked forward to a very special honor. This honor was to be bestowed upon only those juniors who had received a total of 66 points throughout their sophomore and junior years.

With anticipation the juniors awaited the letters, which informed them of their achievements.

The Daisy Chain and Ushers for 1986 were filled with excitement and pride as they represented their class in 1986 graduation.

With this opportunity the juniors were able to experience graduation first hand, a year before they would graduate. Valerie Brown expressed her feelings by stating, "I had a lot of fun. It gave me a chance to experience graduation ceremonies before my own graduation."

The juniors had a lot of fun decorating and being involved in graduation. "We had to work hard, but it was a pleasure, being involved in such an ordeal," stated Gwen Beber, when asked if she enjoyed being involved. Chuck Hickey expressed something along the same lines by saying, "It was very enjoyable to be selected as an usher. I had a lot of fun representing the class of '87."

And know as the 1987 year is coming to an end, the juniors are still filled with the same excitement as the juniors were last year. Wendy Smith expresses this joy by stating, "I've never worked harder for anything in my life, then the honor to represent the class of 1988 at in the 1987 graduation." Elena Palm summed it all up, "It's the best honor that I could be awarded, except for the honor of valedictorian."

It Was Great While It Lasted, But . . .

We Must Go On

These were the thoughts of many seniors as graduation slowly approached. Every senior had different plans and ambitions. Some would go on to college for a higher education; some would start to work for a living; some would marry; and others would just hang low. But whatever it was, it was each person's choice. No more parents to decide; they were on their own!

The senior class was united as one family throughout the year until graduation. After graduation, they were divided into individuals, each with his own dreams and goals, ready to face the problems and hardships of the real world.

But whatever the case, the class of '87 would succeed. They would go on to be even better than they had been throughout high school. They would always be on top.

FOHI'S Most Renowned

The Cream of the Crop!

In December, in their English classes, seniors were given a survey in order to determine who they thought to be the best in FOHI. The results are the people pictured on this and the next page, and the winners' reactions are as follows:

"Being chosen biggest flirt was embarrassing but it doesn't bother me."

— Kerri Kiss

"I'm glad that I was recognized for my accomplishments. I'm happy to have represented Fohi throughout the three years. It's an honor to have been chosen as best athlete by the students."

— Kristen Burich

"It was a privilege and I didn't suspect it. Lots of hard work paid off."

— Vince Rollins

"I guess the part-time that I spent in class was joking around. I had a lot of fun this year."

— Missy Summerville

"I feel that I did not deserve this honor. I think that Mike Spinuzzi should have received it for his dedication and hard work to Fontana athletics.

— Greg Colburnn

"Appearances are not everything, but they sure do help."

— Matt Helsius

"I was embarrassed but flattered at the same time."

— Lisa Fox

"I think it was neat to be recognized just because I'm funny."

— Leanne Lopez

"I had a lot of fun with it because some people took it seriously while others took it as a joke."

— Doug Meeks

"It was a privilege to be chosen out of all the people of the school for best personality."

— Aaron O'farlea

"I was very surprised when I was elected best dressed. I feel that all the money that my parents spent on me for clothes was worth it."

— Jenell Crance

"I'm glad I was nominated as most outgoing because I like to talk to and meet new people."

— Luis Gutierrez

Having been chosen by their peers for various traits and accomplishments, the following seniors expressed their feelings about such an honor:

"I'm glad that I'm about to finish the first step of my education. I hope to continue my studies at either UC Berkley or Harvey Mudd College. There, I hope to gain my degree in engineering and in business administration. After that, I would like to work with chemical and laser technology as an engineer with an administrator."

— Vince Plaza

My dedication of Fohi comes from being proud to be part of this school and my willingness to represent Fontana the best I can."

ACTIVITIES

Activities are a big part of high school life. That fact is no different at Fohi. Fontana High School has always had an activities calendar to boast about, and this year was no exception.

The main ingredient for the recipe of "good activities" here at Fohi was, of course, dances. There were eight dances held this year, including the five sock-hops and the Luau. The Homecoming Dance, held at San Bernardino Hilton Hotel, was a great success. Steffanie Lehr, Secretary of Social Activities, stated, "Being in charge of Homecoming Dance was really exciting, especially since everthing went so smoothly and the dance was so successful. I hope the dances in the future continue to be as popular as they were this year."

The Sadie Hawkins Dance, a major Fohi tradition, was cancelled this year due to lack of interest on the students' part. People gave many different reasons as to why they thought it was cancelled; the main reason from the boys' point of view was that the girls were too shy to ask. As this may be true, ASB had a reported sixty bids sold, but at least a hundred were needed to be sold in order for this dance to take place. Hopefully, next year the dance will sell a little better, as this traditional dance has never been cancelled in the past.

The Prom was held at Raincross Square in Riverside. Over 700 students great of D.J., definitely not the regular entertainment of a prom.

The Luau, reinstated last year and sponsored by the Water Polo and Diving teams, drew many students for an evening of swimming, dancing, and eating.

The operetta was a huge success. Entitled, "The Pajama Game" and taking place on March 13 and 14, it was a fun-filled show, with plenty of great singing and dancing. The cast, crew, and orchestra made Fontana High School very proud of the Fine Arts Department.

The 1986-'87 year certainly lived up to expectations. Will the future years continue the tradition?

Dancing With Fire

Getting a tradition started is not as easy as it seems. For example, bonfires used to be created before each football game because the football team wanted to burn and roast the opponent; however, in 1973 bonfires were outlawed by the state. The tradition disappeared for about two years. In 1978, Mrs. Pat Geotz and the student council decided to have a bonfire dance before the game against Chaffey High School, Fohi's biggest rival.

It became a tradition that an informal bonfire dance be presented outdoors each year by the junior class.

The juniors had this to say about it: Yvette Juarez stated, "The dance was very successful. I was surprised at the amount of people that showed up."

Geneanne Hendry said, "The thing good about the dance was the fact that the junior class raised over $1,000 profit which will go toward the graduation of the class of 1988."

"I had fun dancing, and the dance was a good way to meet new people," added Donna Brandt.

Diane Perez commented, "I had a lot of fun because the weather was perfect for dancing outside, and everything went great."

"It was fun, and I liked the D.J.," replied Tracee Deitrick.

Julia Terral expressed her thoughts, "It was a lot of fun, and I was able to meet new people."

Becky Smith bragged, "The turnout of people was much better than last year."

▼ Demonstrating his new dance technique, Troy Gollings appears to have a good time.

◄ Jenny Leogrande, Orbelio Rodriguez, and Cindy Nash take a break to rest after exerting so much energy "twisting and shouting" with their friends.
▲ Dancing by herself, Christine Lewis shows everyone that being solo can be lots of fun.

▲ After a triumphant football game Ryan Gigliotti celebrated at a sock hop , sponsored by Z-club.

► Best buddies, Tamara Valenzuela, Kristey Folk,and Mike Barns , come together to kick back at the sock hop.

► Stacie Brewer, Maria Booth, and Tiffany Roma finally come out of their shells and exclaim, "Cheese!"

After an excitement — filled Friday night football game students liked to let loose at sock hops. They clamored into the cafeteria to "trip the light fantastic" with their favorite guy or gal. Smiley Villavicencio stated, "I enjoyed the sock hops; they were fun — filled exciting activities."

Tunes from the 60's made a big "splash" at these dances. Students could be seen twisting, swinging, and swaying to such classics as The Beatles' "Twist and Shout," New Edition's revised version of "Earth Angel," and Ben King's "Stand by Me." With a pleasure-filled grin, Luis Gutierrez said, "The music was a gas, it really got me bopping and rock'n and rolling."

With the lights dimmed and the music blared, sock hops were a great way to celebrate after a victorious football game. With a song in mind and a smile on their face, students left the dances happily. Pam Higdem stated, "The sock hops were a blast; they were real groovy."

Holiday Traditions Endure

A new Christmas tradition began this year when a tree-decorating and candle-lighting ceremony commenced at Whitledge Memorial Theater on Monday, December 15. The tree was planted, and, as it grows, will be decorated every year by the student body and staff.

After the tree was decorated, all lights, except those on the tree, were turned off and everyone was handed a burning candle. Then the Madrigals proceeded outside and arranged themselves around the tree to sing Christmas carols. Hilda Ibañez commented, "Christmas is the holiday I enjoy (the most). Christmas brings me beautiful and wonderful memories."

The group then joined the Madrigals to sing many popular carols, including a special rendition of "Rudolph the Red Nosed Reindeer," and afterwards had cookies and hot chocolate. All of this was A.S.B. sponsored and organized by Rosario Perez.

Rosario said, "As organizer of STEELER CHRISTMAS NIGHT, I feel that the event went pretty well. More people than I thought would go, went. The Madrigals did a beautiful job."

Halloween, also called "Holy Eve" or the festival of All Saints, began many years ago with the festivals of the Druids and the Ancient Romans. On Halloween, people still like to believe that witches and goblins roam the earth, but Fohi's Halloween was a week of fun and competition centered around Homecoming.

During Homecoming Week, students dressed up as draculas, grim reapers, and clowns; some boys dressed like girls. Even teachers joined in the fun. Throughout the week, the Agriculture Department sold about 11,000 pounds of pumpkins, and on Friday, Homecoming t-shirts were awarded to Reenae Santos, Tina Santana, Rita Mollinedo, and Diane Lopez for the best carved jack-o-lanterns.

Robert Keene said, "I like Halloween. You can dress up, scare people, and have fun. It's especially fun for the little kids because they like to get candy. I still have thoughts about going trick or treating."

◄ The menacing scowl on Reenae Santos' pumpkin makes it a stunning winner.

"It's Up to You; Guilty or Not!"

This year's fall play, "You, the Jury," drew a semi-full audience on the first session which started at 8:00 p.m. on Saturday, November 22.

Barbara Scott, who was on trial for supposedly murdering Chester Arthur Brand, pleaded guilty because she thought Janice Scott, her sister, had murdered Mr. Brand and she wanted to cover her up. Allan Woodward, the prosecutor, called his first witness, who was Lieutenant Woodward, who was the Chief of Homicide the night of the murder, was asked a few questions. As the witnesses came up, the more suspense there was. After all the questioning was over, the audience voted to see if she was guilty or not guilty. The verdict came back and she was guilty.

On Sunday, November 23, there was another session. By the time this was over, she was not guilty.

'Hoop troop' and Lady Steelers Win CBL Titles; Go to CIF.

Both the Men's and Women's Basketball Teams earned extra recognition for winning the CBL league titles and making it to the CIF playoffs.

This was the Mens' team's first trip to the playoffs since 1972, and Coach Tom McCluskey proudly stated, "It was exciting for the kids especially, and we worked so hard. It happened over a period of three years; it didn't just happen overnight."

The boys played their first game against Perris and won 79-52, then went on to beat Capistrano Valley 83-68. They then lost to Westlake in the quarter-finals and the score was 72-64. Mike Flynn said, "We knew we were going to make it to the playoffs; we just wanted to go first seat. We weren't sure how we were going to do at first, but after the first two games we were pretty confident."

Brian Zeno remarked humbly, "It was a good experience for all of us as a team and the basketball program in general, and we owe most of the credit to Coach McCluskey." Not all of the credit can go to Coach McCluskey however, becuase the boys ended the season with an outstanding record of 24-4

Sean Rooks said, "It was really good for the school that we made it and I'm glad we went as far as we did."

The girls also did a remarkable job and finished their season with a record of 24-2. They lost to Mission Viejo in the quarter-finals after a double overtime ending the game with a score of 58-53. The girls played Norco in the first round and beat them 62-29 and then won against Burroughs 59-37.

Coach Jack Willis said, "I was very proud of the girls' efforts and accomplishments. Losing in double overtime is hard to take, but our girls won the respect of the entire CIF."

After the last game, Jennifer Merry said reflectively, "We went in there with such high spirits and we lost. It was totally heartbreaking to see everyone cry and know it was my last year." Only three varsity girls will return next year, and junior Tara McDonald said, "I thought we had a good enough team to win. It was really tough losing to a team I thought we were better than."

Starting sophomore Danielle Carter remarked, "We had one of the best teams Fohi has ever had. At least I can say that we'll have better luck next year."

Margie Jones commented, "I am proud to have been a part of the 1986-'87 Varsity Basketball Team. It has influenced me in my set-out goals to be the best. I thank my peers for giving me the support I needed throughout the season.

Homecoming Parade, Highlights Activity Week

"Stardust Memories," the theme of the Homecoming dance and all of the Homecoming Week activities, was carried out during Homecoming Week and displayed on the floats during the parade. Float judging was based on how well the theme was represented.

The winning float was the Challenger Starship, created by the Sophomore Class. It took a lot of time and effort, and Mrs. Cindy Mandy, sophomore sponsor, expressed her appreciation to all those who came out and helped when she said, "The kids really put a lot of hours into it."

The job of organizing the float-building was very long, hard work. Each committee had a $200 budget and had to go out and find businesses to donate materials, and each one needed restaurants to feed all of the students who worked every night.

Mrs. Patty Paluzzi, junior sponsor, said, "It's a big job and you have to have someone responsible in charge." She gave special acknowledgement to Smiley Villavicencio and added that, "Without Smiley's help, we wouldn't have had a junior float." Smiley replied, "It was the best fun I've had all year."

Homecoming Week activities were held during the last week in October and led up to the big game on Friday, the 31st. The week consisted of a Maroon and White Day on Monday, when the students showed their spirit by wearing the school colors. Tuesday was Club Activities Day and Wednesday was Carnival Day. On Thursday there was a pumpkin carving contest and on Friday many students and faculty came to school dressed in their Halloween costumes.

Dressed in Gold!

With the enthusiasm sending a shiver through everyone's bones, the balloons were set free. The sky filled with dark blue and purple balloons, which announced the 1986 Homecoming Queen, Staci Westbrook. A vision in gold, as she was that night in her gold dress and shoes, Staci accepted the crown with a light display of joy, through a few tears. When asked how she felt, Staci explained, "I was so excited that I couldn't stop shaking."

Since the Homecoming theme for 1986 was "Stardust Memories," there was a fantastic fireworks display at the announcing of the queen. The sky was lit up and the word 'Staci' was spelled out in a true arrangement of colors. The field was decorated with stairs that had beautifully decorated wooden artwork designed to look like shooting stars, colored in silver, blue, and purple. A red carpet was rolled out, beginning at the foot of the stairs and extending to little platforms set out for the princesses. Each princess got a different color balloon and held it. Then, when the signal was given, balloons matching the color of the queen's were released.

Staci stated that she would never forget that moment for the rest of her life. It would certainly be hard for even the crowd to forget that excitement and beauty all enveloped in the cold night.

"Stardust Memories" Not Forgotten Quickly

2. Melanie Piliero and Jody Panattoni discuss their plans for after the dance with another couple.
3. Queen Staci Westbrook and escort, Stephan Solan, wind their way through the tables amid many congratulations.
4. Lisa Fox and Tony Nash try to decide whether to go dance or not.

"Stardust Memories" was the theme of the 1986 Homecoming Dance. It was held at the Inland Empire Hilton and had an attendance of over 400 students and guests. Bids for the dance sold out in a record two days, with a long waiting list following.

"Working on the Homecoming Dance was a great experience," said Steffanie Lehr, the coordinator of the dance. "It was a lot of work, but in the end, it was all definitely worth every minute!"

Jedd The Fish from 106.7 KROQ, was the D.J., and the next day he mentioned our dance on his broadcast.

All in all, everything went smoothly and everyone seemed to have a good time. The only problem noted was when a couple of tables got pushed back to make more room for all of Fohi's enthusiastic dancers!

"I'm glad that all this happened during my senior year," stated Marcy Campbell, "Because I don't think that Homecoming can get much better than this!"

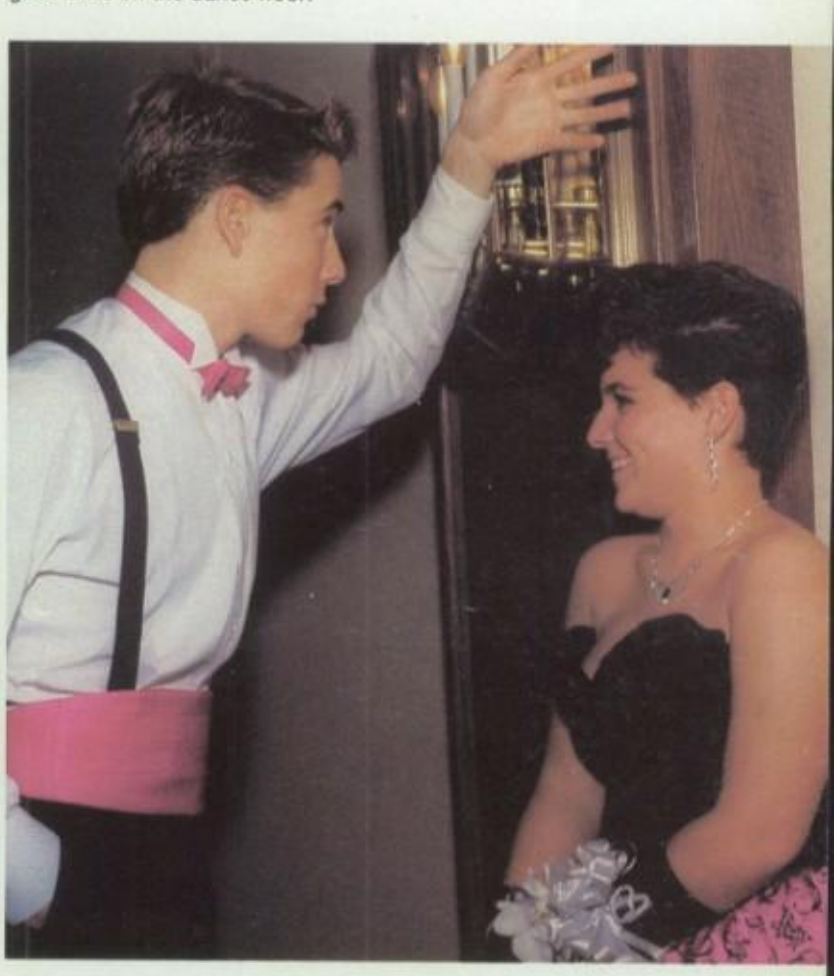
2. Steffanie Lehr and date Dan Doster find some time to talk about how well the dance has turned out.
3. Diana Perez demonstrates that she is having a good time on the dance floor.



Someone's Got To Do It . . .

Putting together a Homecoming Dance was not easy. Just ask any previous Secretary of Social Activities and she will tell you. Little things that we all take for granted such as the color of the tablecloths and napkins were carefully selected by the Secretary, as were the arrangements of the tables and the flowers that went on them.

Who should the D.J. be? What kind of music should he play? All these things had to be seriously considered before any decisions could be made. Then there was the theme. What should it be? Serious, Romantic, or humorous? Ah, Decisions, Decisions! Getting a facility that was big enough to hold enough people was another huge task. Frustration started to set in, when every single place had been booked. What now? The school gym?!

When all was said and done, some of the biggest decisions had to be made. How much should be spent on what, and how much should bids be?

People may not realize it, but putting together a Homecoming Dance was definitely a tough job. It was rewarding when everything was finished. The students had a good time, and we could put our feet up and relax!

Sierra Avenue Full of Life!

The Homecoming parade was a very memorable one. People lined Sierra Avenue, full of enthusiasm and pride as the many schools and floats came down the street. Grand Marshalls of the parade were Mr. Don Eitelman, former Fohi band director and composer of the Alma Mater and his wife. The parade seemed to set the spirit for the victory over Eisenhower later that night.

The parade was a big success. The children along the sidewalks got candy from Z-club members as they rode down the street. The bands from Fontana Junior High, South Tamarind, and Fontana High School went enthusiastically down t street, playing tunes that seemed to lift t spirits of the viewers.

All in all, the parade went on as in pa years. The cold weather seemed to liven the crowd, and all the participants we well-received.

1. The Fontana High School cheerleaders ride the Central Valley engine down Sierra Avenue, cheering and heightening spirits.
2. The VICA car, carrying Lori Dean and Bianca Hernandez, ride d the street, followed by the Fontana Junior High Band.
3. A display of ghostly craftsmanship, sponsored by the EEE club.
4. The many members of the Z-Club, throw candy to the children riding in Mrs. Path's truck.
5. The juniors on the junior float are excited while riding down the s turning heads.

Senior Steve Pfarr decides to follow the advice of one of the propaganda slogans, and not "be a boner, but be a blood donor." Gayle Olsen finds the comfort of a friend as she gives one of the 215 pints of blood that were donated. Mr. Michael Andrus sets a wonderful example for students as he talks with Jennifer Greogory at the third step of the registration process.

Steelers Were "Good to the Last Drop."

The tables were set up, the needles unloaded, and the cookies set out in anticipation of the students that were about to pile in to give the gift of life.

Students began flocking to the West Gym where the Blood Bank of San Bernardino and Riverside counties was prepared to accept their generous donations of one pint each.

"It was for a good cause as long as it helped somebody else, that's all that mattered," commented Grace Figuero.

"The people were helpful and friendly," commented Denise Wheatly.

"It didn't hurt, but it felt funny when it was coming out of my arm," stated first time donor, Mario Santos.

Many of the students wondered what good it would do them to donate. The answer was, it could have saved their own lives, or the life of a loved one.

The blood bank is just like a regular bank, but it deals in blood. Every pint that students donated went on account for FOHI. Then, should anyone in any student's family need a blood transfusion, FOHI gave some of the blood on account.

Blood constantly has to be replaced, so the blood given may have saved the life of someone you didn't know, but down the road, the blood someone else donated could save your life.

Careers and Plays Are Sure Signs of Spring!

Every May Fohi hosts its annual Career Day. This day is designed to inform students about different career choices for their future. There are representatives from many different fields, from Fashion Designing to the Police Department. These people are on hand to answer any questions and help you try to choose a career that might interest you. The Police, Fire, and Sheriffs Departments put on a display of cop cars and fire trucks.

Besides the people from different careers there are also representatives from different colleges and universities. This is a good time to get as much information as you need for your college plans.

The Spring Play this year was a success. The dedication of the Whitledge Memorial Amphitheater took place on May 8, 1987, directly before the second performance; the first was on May 6, 1987. The dedication ceremony included a touching rememberance speech about the late Fred Whitledge, given by Mr. Jerry Dison. The ceremony made the play an even more memorable event.

The production consisted of 5 one-act plays: "Will Someone Please Tell Me What's Going On Here?", "Patio", "The Rainy Afternoon", "Happy Ending", and "Where Have All the Lightening Bugs Gone?" They were all enjoyed by the audience. The cast and crew were exceptional, and the direction outstanding by Mr. Patrick Meagher.

"The Music Never Ends" When Excitement Is All Around.

On May 23, the "Music Never Ended," but it faded as the anticipation mounted. Excitement bubbled over as that special duo was announced, and never before had anyone seen two happier faces. The night was so magical as the atmosphere danced with the couples in creating an aura of carefree glitz.

Promgoers were all friendly with one another as they joked around and thoroughly enjoyed all of the blessings the night had to offer. It would surely be a night that would never be forgotten, and it was thanks to the class of '88 that the Prom was such a success.

► David Burnham, Marcy Campbell, Matt Helsius, Melissa Kaiser, and Steffanie Lehr take time out from dancing to have a discussion on who they think will be the 1987 king and queen.

▼ After being named prom queen, Lisa Ramirez glows with excitement.

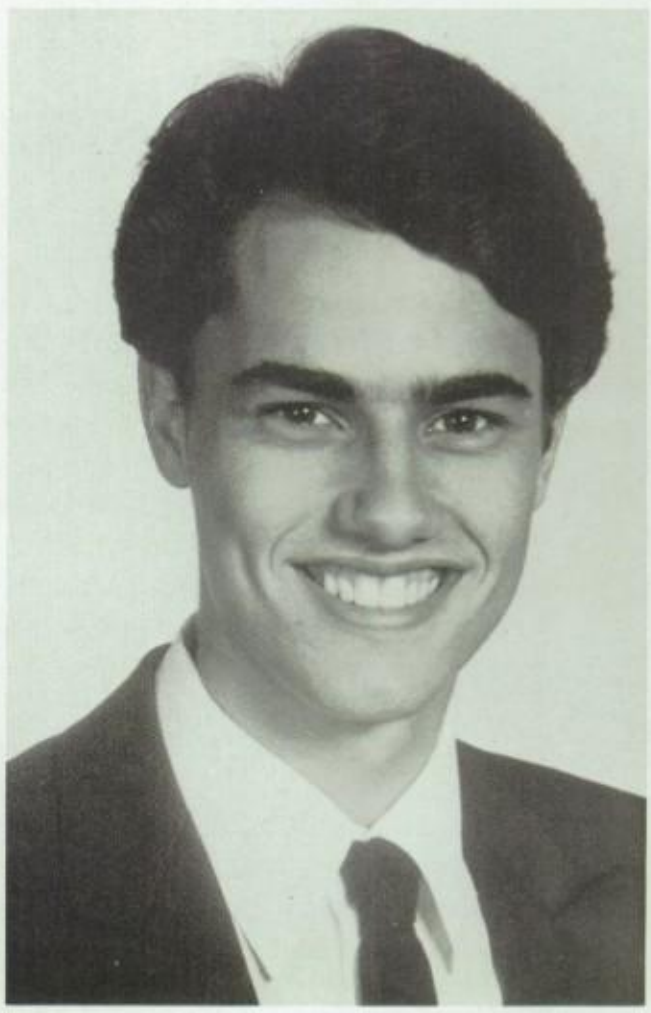
► Being pronounced as king, David Burnham thinks of all the memories hewill have to remember when he looks back on the years.



"THE MUSIC NEVER ENDS"

"Raincross Square Adds a Square to the Flare"

Held at Raincross Square in Riverside, the Prom could not have been in a more perfect place. Talk about snazzy! Not only were the surroundings lovely, the decorations present were awesome. They were provided by the Balloon Man who was best known for his extraordinary creativity in the 1986 Super Bowl half-time show. The students of FOHI were fortunate that he was not stingy with his talents, because the surrounding spectacle he created was more than inviting. It was hard to get the couples to leave!

Another reason for the Prom's outstanding success was the surprising fact that standing in line for pictures was not boring! This was greatly due to the fabulous light show given by Gambill Olsen Enterprises. All couples were dazzled by the fascinating show that they observed with interest while conversing with one another in the rapidly moving line that led to the picture area with photographers from Hot Shot Productions.

Of course a prom wouldn't be a prom without lotsa music and dancing, and these definitely were not lacking. The couples swayed and rocked to the most popular hits played by the light show providers, Gambill Olsen Enterprises. The dance floor was constantly crowded, and it was noted that couples were even dancing out the door as they left for the well-known beach romancing.

The 1987 Prom was rated a 10, no doubt about it. It was better than any in the past, and the class of '89 is going to have a tough time outdoing their upperclassmen. But for the seniors, nothing will ever be able to compare!

Off Broadway

Featuring such hilarious acts as "A Chorus Line," "Top Hats and Tails," and "The Dreams (The Supremes)," the third edition of the Fohi Faculty Fractured Follies was a smashing success. Its title was, "Off Broadway," and the performances were unforgettable.

As the curtain rose at 7 p.m., Thursday, April 2, the air was filled with anticipation. The long awaited Fohi Faculty Follies was about to begin. The actors had their work cut out, as there were high expectations to live up to. The Follies have been very successful in the past; $2500 was raised by last year's performance alone.

The purpose of the Follies was not only to entertain because all of the proceeds w scholarships for deserving Fohi students

Mrs. Alice Path, counselor, was very i ed in the Follies. She stated, "We do t the kids. All of the money goes t scholarships. But mostly, the teachers lot of fun . . . and some really have talen

The Story Behind It All!

The swift-moving plot of "The Pajama Game" unfolds as follows: the local union of the Sleep-Tite Pajama Factory is demanding a 7 1/2 cent an hour raise, being the only group in the business that has not received it. However, the factory president, Mr. Hasler, is staunchly against the raise proposal. Meanwhile, Sid Sorokin, the new superintendent at the factory is trying to keep production at its peak. Soon, he meets and falls swiftly in love with Babe Williams, a member of the union's Grievance Committee. But, despite the efforts of the superintendent, Babe insists that she is union and he is management, and that they cannot agree during the dispute. Along with this blooming romance, there is also a love-interest between Hines, a time-study expert, and Gladys, the President's secretary. As the story moves along, there are several steamy romances, a wild rip-roarin' company picnic, a big union rally, and lots and lots of fun!

The two romantics, Cheryl Friberg and David Burnham walk out on stage in their matching pajamas, to conclude the fantastic performance.
David Burnham tries, through passion, to persuade Denise Hernandez to give him the key to Mr. Hasler's secret book, which contains the money matters of Sleep Tite Pajamas.
Randy DuVall tries so hard to convince Melinda Howard that he'll never be jealous again and that no matter what, he will trust Gladys.

Acting Out Success In Pajamas!

The curtains opened and nobody could have imagine the fantastic performance that was presented March 13 & 14 in the Theodore Auditorium. "The Pajama Game" was a complete success. Through all the hard work and practice the end result was a hit. Cheryl Friberg expressed, "The experience was great! It was fun and yet a hard show, but it was very rewarding. I never regreat having tried-out because all of the hard work finally paid off." The same idea were expressed when Joel Miller stated, "The musical as was very rewarding. Though a lot was put into it, the end result was worth it." Everyone was astatic over the fantastic performance presented by the Performing Arts Department.

By the smiles, tears, and congratulations at the end of the performances, it was evident that all those involved had had a fantastic time entertaining the audience. David Burnham descibed the experience as, " The most exciting time of my senior year." Vocal director, Dan Friberg summed it all up by saying, "Most fun I've ever had. The Best!"

While at the company picnic, Randy DuVall shows everyone what a great shooter he is, and Debbie Baumgautner is turned around and around by David Heaton , as the crowd cheers on.
Cheryl Friberg tries to tell David Burnham just how much she really loves him.
David Burnham confront David Heaton with the evidence he has uncovered in the secret book; that the 7 1/2 cent raise has already been added to the books, but not to the employies. Randy DuVall seems to be astonish by the news, while Denise Hernandez seems a slight bit dicussed.
The entire company has gathered at Hernando's Hideaway, for a pajama party, which concludes the performance.

Together Cast, Crew, and Chorus Attract Crowds!

Without the fantastic sets there would have been a dull presence that would have lowered the results of the production. Due to the larger amount of funds, more money was available to be outlayed for the sets. But is not only the sets that added the right touch to the play, there were also many hours of practice using the lights, sound system, chorus moves, and the parts of each cast member. Together with all the efforts of everyone involved there was the potential for an outstanding production; and that's what it was.

Although some put in more time and effort, expressed by Bobbie Grach when she stated, "A lot of work went into the Pajama Game for the actors — but people don't appreciate or know about the work the crew does. The audience just sees the end product, but the crew put in hours and hours more than the performers. We spent 12 hours on Saturdays and lunches and after school in the auditorium working on the sets. It was hard work, but it was worth it," it's the end product that really count. Everyone working together and pulling off such an excellent performance. It's usually the performers that get all the glory, but the crew deserves a lot of thanks for all their hard work and effort in making this production such a success.

Music Makes Stardom

The music that accompanied 'The Pajama Game' made the production even more of a success. Without the music there would have been a ramble of lines, but no life, no enthusiasm, just plain blah! But there was music and there was life and enthusiasm. The music was superb, as it is every year, but it was even better when accompanied by the fantastic voices of the singers.

The orchestra is very much a great part of the play, but is hardly noticed because they are in the pit and not on stage. The music was so good and so well played that it was not easy to forget about all the students down there in the pit making the performance the greatest they ppossibly could.

With all the effort and time put into this production it would be hard to say it was anything less than a success. With the entire company trying to do everything possible to make it better and working together, 'The Pajama Game' was outstanding!

JUNIORS

As juniors, most of the soon-to-be 1988 graduates were all hyped up about their big senior year. For some, 1987 was just "there," but boy was 1988 anxiously anticipated:

"I enjoyed knowing that there was only one more year to go!"

— DeAnna Daly

"As a junior, I enjoyed getting through another year of high school, and knowing that next year would be my senior year!"

— Michelle Woodward

"I enjoyed looking forward to only one more year of high school!"

— Kurt Bruich #24 All-CBL Football

"I enjoyed getting my new truck and realizing that I only had one more year in high school."

— $Rick Rich$

"I enjoyed the fact that I wasn't a sophomore — it takes a good year to develop real maturity. Then in your senior year, you can act like a sophomore and get away with it!"

— Jeramy Tonello

Some juniors paid their junior year the respect that it deserved by recalling their special junior experiences:

"I enjoyed the spirit of the Junior Class, Steeler pride in athletics, newspaper, and all of the gorgeous junior girls!"

— Hugh Rist

"I enjoyed all the wild and crazy times I had with Teresa White!!"

— Wendy Pierce

"I enjoyed hanging around (all the time!!) my best friend, Wendy Pierce."

— Teresa White

"I enjoyed the entire year: football games, Homecoming, finally getting mid-terms and finals over with, Z-Club trips . . ."

— Louise Skura

"I enjoyed float building and Miss Zerilli's class."

— Smiley Villavicencio

"I enjoyed having the privilege of sitting between three gorgeous ladies in chemistry."

— Rod Taylor

"I enjoyed meeting people and having good times with my friends."

— Chrystal Cruz

FLASHBACKS!!!

In the year 2007 will you remember some of these hits of 1987?

. . . coming home from school in the afternoon, taking off your shoes, kicking back and turning the television set on to watch Phil Donahue or Opreh Winfrey the daytime talk show hosts who had controversial subjects ranging from sex to outerspace. Shari Andersen who watches Opreh Winfrey on Channel 7 said, "She acts real funny, but she can be real serious at the same time, and she is not afraid to say whatever comes to her mind on TV."

. . . "ALF," which stood for Alien Life Form, came from a plant called Melmac. "ALF" capped on everybody as he learned human life with the Tanner family who decided to keep him after he crashed into their garage. Monday Night Football, which headed up ABC's lineup on Monday has been on for 18 years and still was going strong.

". . . This is KIIS FM with Rick Dees in the morning . . ." To some of you this may sound familiar in the morning. Kathy Brower said "She listened to KIIS FM because Rick Dees was funny and all the stupid jokes which he thought were funny made that radio station more interesting." Other people woke up to Bobby Mercer and Lisa Dillon on 99.1, which also had a morning show.

. . . While cruising on your Honda Scooter with your Reebok shoes, you may stop at McDonald's to order a McDLT and then as you scoot home, you see your friend in his Nissan Mini-truck pulling into YoCreme' Frozen Yogurt place to get his favorite flavor of yogurt.

. . . After you watched "Top Gun" which starred Tom Cruise, you remembered what Max Headroom said, "to all you Cokologists catch the wave."

Fast Food Fanatics

There were quite a few fast food restaurants in Fontana which were frequently visited by students during lunch; among them were McDonald's, Wendy's, Jack-in-the-Box, Burger King, Del Taco, Baker's, Taco Bell, and many, many more.

These restaurants owed a great deal of there business to FOHI students. A large number of students went out during the fifty-four minute lunch break to enjoy the luxury of a fast food lunch.

One of the main reasons students went out to lunch rather than eating at the snack bar or cafeteria was due to the relatively short amount of time allowed for lunch and the long lines a person must wait in to get food at the snack bar.

When asked about his favorite restaurant, Anthony Stangeby said, "Taco Bell because they make the best burritos."

Thanks to the variety of fast food restaurants there were to choose from, all those who wanted to go out to lunch had quite a decision on their hands. After a short time of eating fast food, many of the people who went out developed the habit of going to one favorite restaurant.

Cellina Rios rushes from the bus to lunch.

Fast Food!

Eyes start to wander as the countdown begins, 5 . . . 4 . . . 3 . . . 2 . . . 1 . . ., and the race is on. Every student rushes for the parking lot in order to get out before the traffic jam occurs. Students pile into cars and the sound of engines drown out the sound of voices, deciding where they want to go. Everyone has agreed, FAST FOOD!

The habit of the decade, fast food restaurants. Carl's Jr., Burger King, Del Taco, McDonald's, Wendy's, Arby's, and Taco Bell. These businesses seem to get their main stream of profit from the students that come there during lunch, from Fontana High School.

The main subject during the last 10 minutes of class is, "How much money do I have? Let's see, a large coke is 75¢, a hamburger is $1.29, and fries are 75¢, making a total of $3.00 with tax. Oh, no! I only have $2.00. That means I can only get small fries and a medium coke." Boy are their lives shattered when their money runs a little bit short.

Habits are very well formed within the high school years of a teenager. The fast food habit seems to become the way of eating as the students become more mature adults. This habit seems to be passed down from generation to generation by the passing of money to children for lunch.

Lefties in a Right-Hand World

Right-handers make up the majority of the world's population, and fortunately for these people, the world is basically adapted to their needs. However, the often neglected and discriminated against left-handers are the ones on whom this article is focused for the very reason that they have been basically ignored throughout civilization.

When asked to explain how he felt about being left-handed, John Oliver replied that he felt disadvantaged because the school desks were hard to write on, and his arm had to be kept raised as he wrote or his writing would have been smeared. John added, "In addition to feeling disadvantaged, I felt that discrimination was shown against left-handed people because this world was built for right-handed people only."

Becky Smith disagreed, "I felt advantaged because left-handed people are six percent smarter than right-handed people."

Kurt Bruich stated, "I felt that the school should have provided at least one row of left-handed desks within the classrooms."

" Dawn Hoogerwerf added, "I felt the district should have provided the funds to purchase longer desks, instead of the short desks."

While Mr. Jim Dunn gives a lecture about atoms, John Oliver takes some left-handed notes.

The Annoying Mess!

The annoying sound of the "SNAP" comes from the back of the room. The teacher looks around from behind his book at the class with his beady eyes. That sound so often had interrupted the quiet setting of his classroom. Gum has for so long been the object in which students have attempted to annoy and disturb the teacher and classroom.

Flavors of spearmint, banana, strawberry, and tropical punch all left an aroma around the chewer. Anyone within five feet of the gum chewer would be enveloped by the aroma.

Gum has become the major mess of many classrooms. For example, a student walked into the room, attempted to sit in his seat, but found it necessary to hold on to the side of the desk. The slime and gook squished through his fingers as someone before him had stored his gum there for tomorrow.

Mrs. Peggy Crowell, librarian, summed it all up by writing:

GUM!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!

Yum, Yum, Yum, the fruit flavored gum-The flavor abounds as the room fills with sounds of Bubbles and Cracks and of rudeness it SMACKS.

Its found on my shoes, our tires and our rug-oh that chewing gum, an annoying bug.

So chew if you will, but make it be still or the hole you call a mouth I will fill.

The annoying sound is about to escape from Trixie Lingo's mouth as the bubble expands and finally bursts. POP!!!!!!!

Daydreams

You scanned the room and you saw Joe staring out the window, Tina looking off into space, and Larry studying the wall instead of his notes. Daydreaming was a popular pastime at FOHI, especially during classtime, stated junior Candy Negrete "I daydream when my dreams are more exciting than my class."

When the question arose, "What is your favorite daydream?" Mike Falgout said his was "Crazed hippies with 17 inch diameter bell bottoms." "Living in a world where everybody gets along and is free to do what they please," was junior Cherie Savy's favorite daydream.

Maria Booth, junior, stated "I find it so easy to daydream! I do it all the time." That's how many people felt about daydreaming. Daydreaming is an everyday part of life for people who like to forget their problems and go to a world where nothing matters.

Lea Ann Christiansen daydreams about seeing her boyfriend after school.

Lisa Gonzales can complete her timed typing assignment with ease, because she's wearing her favorite, most comfortable shoes.

Shoe Magic

Last year's shoe styles were a break away from the saddle shoes and penny loafers of old. They were different and unusual and never boring. One of the hottest fashion accessories was western boots. They were exciting and fun with fringe, and a little wild with rhinestones. Tanya Sage commented, "Shoes are a fashion statement; they reflect your personality."

High heels have been around for a long time, but what about three-inch heels with tiger stripes? Even pumps with sequins have made their debut. Flats have come a long way and were full of pep and pizazz with laces, bows, and buckles in silver and gold. "Shoes show what kind of a person you are, whether wild, sophisticated, or sporty," commented Frank Zamora.

Wacky styles reached far more than just pumps; even tennies were a little risqúe. Anything from crayons to flowers could be found on the patterned tennis shoes, and Reebok was still a big name with added colors, such as pastel high tops and an outrageous hot pink.

Crushes

The school year had its ups and downs. It seems students either experienced extreme pleasure or extreme pain. Most will agree that hidden behind those tempermental natures was the ever so popular "crush." Boys and girls basically had the same definition of "crush." Christina Rivera defined crush as, "When you really like somebody but you're afraid of being rejected so you don't say anything. Then later you find out that person liked you too." On the other hand Frank Zamoro stated, "When you think a girl is really cute and you hold it in until you're ready to burst, then you finally let her know by writing her 20 love letters."

Whatever students definitions for "crush" were, there was no doubt many were touched by one. It could be seen in classrooms as students walked into their class teary — eyed; crying because their latest love didn't look at them. They could also be seen sitting in class as if they were in a hypnotic trance. Wastebaskets were overflowing with papers clustered with hearts saying, "I love John Doe." or "I love Jane Doe."

Through all of this tears were shed and relationships were begun. For some their "crush" developed into a long lasting relationship; for others a broken heart.

Anthony Nelson seems intrigued by what Mrs. Allen has to say about the novel Huckleberry Finn during her Jr. English class, while Kurt Rohl , on the other hand, seems to be distracted.

Cheating Cliques

They are common sights in front of every class prior to the ringing of the tardy bell. They are groups of students whispering to one another and exchanging little pieces of paper. They all concentrate on one desire — getting the answers for the big test!

Many people mistake these groups of students to be studious little youngsters studying together in hopes of attaining a good grade on the test. But this is hardly the case. Rather, these are conniving students doing all they can to cheat their ways to a decent grade on the test. The cheating process is a mighty tough one, but for desperate students who haven't studied it's the only alternative if they want to pass the class.

There is no cure for the cheating bug and no solutions can be offered. But it is best not to get involved with these groups because of their notoriety for evil goings-on. So, it is better to rely on self accomplishment than on the stolen answers from others.

Kurt Bruich contemplates a quick turn and glance at Ron Burris's test.

T.V.'s Best

The NBC Thursday night line-up of this last T.V. season seemed to have kept the students of Fontana High happily entertained. The most popular shows were "The Cosby Show", "Family Ties", "Cheers," and "Night Court."

It seemed that while "The Cosby Show" dominated the Nielson ratings, "Family Ties" was the favorite among FOHI students.

" 'Family Ties' is one of the best shows to come around in a long time," said junior, Geneanne Hendry. "It's a great show which you can relate to, while adding a twist of humor to give the show a fresh outlook."

Jennifer Finazzo, also a junior, agreed. "I do like Thursday Nights," she replied. " 'Family Ties' is the one I really wait to watch. Thursday is far the best night of the week."

The success of "Family Ties" was very much due to the star of the show, Michael J. Fox. The character he portrayed, the short, but very cute Alex P. Keaton, was well-known for his wise-cracks and arrogance.

The rest of the shows were equally entertaining. The continuing saga of Sam and Diane on "Cheers" kept the audience watching, and the crazy cast of "Night Court" kept everyone in stitches.

Thursday night was definitely a night to remember for T.V. sitcom-addicts.

SOPHOMORES

When the word enthusiasm was uttered, the first thing to come to mind was the Sophomore class.

New to FOHI, it was expected that the sophomores would have a tough time getting into the swing of things. Boy, was that theory blown apart! The sophomores were actually with it! Not only did they come in first in the Homecoming Float contest, they also excelled in sports, fine arts, and academics in general. There didn't seem to be any challenges that they couldn't meet and conquer.

It was really interesting to have a bright, cheery younger class around on campus. But not only were these underclassmen perky, they also seemed to be unusually mature. Naturally, there are exceptions to every rule, but on the whole, the sophomore class was a pretty well-adjusted group of pre-juniors.

Sophomore Dena Tyberski exclaimed, "I like the fact that as a Sophomore I was able to face up to the challenge of high school with it's larger campus and larger number of people.

Renee Reeves stated, "I liked being a sophomore because I knew that I had three more years left of school, and that gave me something to look forward to, namely being a senior."

It wasn't easy for the sophomore class to hold the position of the lowest of all underclassmen, but this group of 1989 graduates remained proud and held their heads high throughout the year.

It was due to their devotion to FOHI and their enthusiasm for everything around them that the sophomores were somewhat respected rather than rejected. For once, some of the sophomores were looked up to rather than down upon!

David Autobee gets a kick out of being a sophomore.

► Becky Sousa is disgusted with having to practice in the wind.

Not the Real Thing

There are many different kinds of substitutes. There are sugar substitutes, salt substitutes, and vitamin substitutes, but the kind of substitute I'm talking about is a substitute teacher. In the dictionary, a substitute teacher is defined as one who is acting in place of a teacher, but if you ask some Fohi students, they will give a different definition.

Junior Renee Mendoza defined a substitute as, "Someone who is very nice and lets us talk to our friends, and work at the same time (Mr. Haney)."

Senior Jennifer Kelley said a day with a substitute is "a day to kick back."

Jennifer Rogers, junior, stated, "Easy day, work free."

Overall, people think that substitutes are unnecessary. In reality, without them, school life at FOHI wouldn't be the same.

Homework? What?

An awful lot of people refused to think that homework meant a passing grade, but just ask them if they liked their grades! Some people did know how important it was, but didn't feel like doing it, not tonight. However, their grades wouldn't wait for them.

For one, having to carry books around campus was enough, but then having to look or even study in them was almost impossible.

Everyone had homework and everyone's homework helped make up his grade. The truth was, not doing homework resulted in a failing grade. Before a student put his book beside the bed or refused to open the bookbag in the corner of his room, he should have thought twice. The education one receives from studying could bring more happiness in the future by helping him to get into college or get a better job. Anyway one looked at it, doing homework was a "necessary evil."

Working hard, or hardly working?

"I Need Candy!"

Even though candy has a high sugar content that causes cavities, students eat candy bars, chew gum, or munch out on doughnuts by the hundreds.

"Clubs sold candy because it was a fast money-maker. Also, almost everyone has a sweet tooth. When clubs sold candy, a profit was surely gained. Whenever I sold candy, at least five to eight different people came into the office asking if I had any candy to sell," stated Sophomore Council advisor, Mrs. Cindy Mandy.

"I ate a lot of candy because the flavor was delicious, and I couldn't live without it. It kept me going when I felt like the world and life itself had stopped. Candy also helped sweeten my disposition if things were at their worst. In addition, it filled me up before suppertime so I wouldn't have had to eat all the yucky food my mom put on my plate," commented Iva Hart.

Robin Sherpherd added, "I ate candy because it helped pass the time when I was hungry. When I didn't want to eat a healthy meal, I ate a candy bar to put something in my stomach."

"When I was hungry and wanted something to snack on that wouldn't fill me up, I ate a candy bar. Candy was something I could have eaten in a hurry without making a mess or being late for class," said Melissa Rist.

Lynnett Reynolds enjoys delicious, chocolate and carmel Twix candy bar. This was a popular kind of candy that was sold by many clubs as a fund raiser.

An Eggcellent Eggsperience

An "eggciting" experiment germinated in Mrs.Kamper's human development class. It involved students in the class carrying and taking care of raw eggs (which represented babies) for five full days. Many students participated by carrying decorated baskets containing their egg. There were two sets of "twins" and one set of "triplets". Names of "parents" choosen for these eggs were drawn out of a basket by the teacher. Mrs. Kamper puts her intials on each egg to signify that it was the original and not a replacement.

The "parent" of the eggs had more than just the eggs to turn in at the end of the week,students also had to write reports explaining about their week with the egg. This project helped young people to learn about the care and responsibilty of having a real child. For instance,the egg had to go everywhere the "parent" went. If the "parent" couldn't possibly take the egg with her,she had to hire an eggsitter.

One situation that has occurred year after year with these experiments was some of the eggs being kidnapped and ransom notes left in their places. Usually ransom notes contain threats such as that the egg would be scrambled or squashed.if their requirements were not met.

"It was fun,but difficult at times carrying the egg everywhere I went",stated Regina Easlon

Cheryl Medeiros was "mother" of "triplets" who stated,"I enjoyed the experiment,and did not think the eggs were a hassle." Andea Pinard was a "mother" of "twins" and said it was great having twins, but sometimes it was a bit diffulcult to find an egg-sitter.

The egg experiment was seen in an issue of Consumer Science Journal by Mrs. Kamper. This project had been used by her for at least five years. Mrs. Kamper perferred this project over others because it taught the students to be extremely careful when carrying a raw egg. One must have treated the egg like a real child.

So if you saw anyone carrying an egg and thought it was ridiculous, the yolk was on you.

Twin egglets smile at Godmother, Mrs. Sherri Kamper.

Two In One

Can you tell the difference between a car and a girl? When the 50's dude said "That is so choice!" What was he talking about? A girl in a tight sweater and a tight skirt or a fullhouse Chevy 409? When a guy from the 60"s said "That's righteous!" is that a top fuel dragster or is that a girl in a see through blouse and a micro mini skirt?" "She's far out!" is the 70's boy talking about a pearlescent candy metal flask Corvette, or a girl in hiphuggers and a cut off T-shirt? You guys don't know how it feels when a girl wlks by and hears a compliment, but it's for the fixed up V.W. Bug behind her! Why must guys always use the same terms to describe a pretty girl and a nice car? It seems like that since the automobile was invented. It's really weird, but just seems that people can't get the words to describe cars and girls seperately. "It really doesn't bug me if a guy refers to a girl and a car in the same way," said Jennifer O'Neil , sophomore. "Hey boys why don't you get it straight? What would you rather kiss good night, a pile of metal or your girlfriend?" Shanna Broughton , sophomore remarked.

"Peachy Pink" is a familiar term used to describe Carla Kingsbury's V.W. Bug.

Music Television's New VJ's

As the song says, "That's the way ta' do it; they play the guitar on the M.T.V."

Playing a guitar on the network totally dedicated to music might be one of the dreams of a teenager. Other dreams might include being a guest vj, winning a contest and meeting your favorite band or singer, or getting a record contract with some equipment you could start your own studio up with.

M.T.V., otherwise knows as Music Television, has been around for five years now. When M.T.V. first started, it had five vj's. Only three of the original cast remain this year. They were Martha Quinn, Mark Goodman, and Alan Hunter. Three new vj's, Julie Brown, Dweezil Zappa, and China Slick Kantner were all a breath of fresh air.

Kantner, daughter of Starship's Grace Slick, and Zappa, son of Frank Zappa and the brother of Moon Unit Zappa, both grew up in the rock and roll spotlight. Moon usually makes an appearance with Dweezil since her "Valley Girl" harmonizing has come to an halt.

Junior, Debby Torres, thinks the best vj was Dweezil Zappa. "I'd like to be a vj, only if I was paid lots of money."

If you think you'd do it just for the recognition, dial M.T.V.; they might hire you!

"Double Take"

Some people are fortunate in this world to see a mirror image, without the purchase of a mirror. These fortunate ones are called identical twins. Twins are a set of brothers, sisters, or both who were conceived in the same womb and produced at the same time. Identical twins seem to present to people around them the image and appearance of being exactly the same. When in reality they are as different as night and day. Most identical twins have the exact opposite likes and dislikes. Usually one excels in one area while the other does not. When asked if they liked being identical twins, Gabrielle and Jeanyee Teanio said, "they really enjoyed being twins." It's hard for the teachers to decide which is which, but they said that they never switched classes, or boyfriends. Donna and Diana Garcia take as much advantage of the situation as possible. Since they do not have the same classes it becomes easy for them to switch classes.

Donna and Diana Garcia do a "double take."

Metal Mouth

Me:Oh no! Here comes metal mouth again. I hate talking to him because it feel like I 'm taking a shower with all that spitting he does while he talks!

She: I heard that he and Susie got caught toghether while they were kissing and the doctor had to pry them apart.

He: If I had braces I would never kiss or smile, I would be so embarrassed! What if they caught the sunlight and blinded the people in front of me?

She: Well all I know is that every time his mouth opens I expect a little choo — choo train to shoot across his teeth.

How this situation is so ture — two students putting down a guy because he wears braces. Yess, it's true: people with braces get teased a bit but it's only for a little while, until people get used to seeing them. It's certainl, not like in our parents generation when hardly anyone wore braces. Those who did, were definitely teased and noticed. Now days more than 50% of kids wear braces or have worn braces.

She: Look at that smile! Who is that? Those are a great set of chompers.

She: Oh? They look great! Hey come over here.

So see it may be a pain but it pays. Wires and metal today, shining chompers tomorrow.

Tracilee Piliero suffered the trauma of braces, but what a great smile!

That's Entertainment!

The 1986-87 movie season was full of pleasant surprises. Although there were flops, most Fohi students agreed that the majority of films this past year were worth the five dollars they paid to see them.

The ever-popular comedy was a big hit again, with the money-making film, "Crocodile Dundee," starring the Australian actor Paul Hogan. The story was about a crocodile poacher who goes to New York City and tries to survive there.

"It was so funny," stated Mark Carter, sophomore. "It was a really great movie."

Another money-making film released in 1986, which got a lot of attention at the box office from Fohi students, was Rob Reiner's movie, "Stand By Me." It was the story of four boys and their close friendship with each other. The movie had some very funny parts, as well as its share of touching moments. It's three main stars were Richard Dreyfuss, Wil Wheaton, and River Phoenix.

As Lynette Reynolds, sophomore, put it, "It was a good movie, but the part about the leaches was really upsetting."

Sophomore Melanie Heath agreed. "It was really a great movie, but some parts, like the part with the dead body, were pretty gross."

In short, Fohi students were priviledged with an excellent movie season. That's a rap!

Sophomores Vicki Manning and Dena Tyburski study diligently in Mr. Thompson's biology class.

Clubs

Good friends, good times, relaxation . . . whatever you want!

Campus Clubs took students to places they've never gone before. Maybe to Mammoth for a ski trip with the Ski Club, or to an international conference with VICA, giving members memories and experiences to last them a life time.

What else do teenagers want besides being with people their own age with the same interests, doing the things they want to do?

Preparing members for the future was an important reason clubs existed. Student Store taught students interested in owning their own businesses what was actually involved. Future Farmers of America taught those who wanted to be future farmers. FBLA taught those who want to lead the business world of the future.

"I joined Drama Club and Acapella because I believed they would prepare me for what I want to major in college — singing and acting," commented junior, Brandi Aker-Mills.

Maybe you were a junior or senior girl with a 3.0 GPA and wanted to get away from the ho-hum of school life and do something to aid the community, yet have fun while doing it. What you did was join the Z Club.

Maybe you wanted to join a group of people interested in Christian Fellowship. What you did was join Campus Life.

Maybe you wanted to travel to Hawaii with your friends, then you joined SCAT.

Maybe you had a remarkable poetic writing and wanted to see your work in publication, then you joined the Newspaper Staff.

Maybe you have outstanding leadership skills, then you ran for an office in the Associated Student Body.

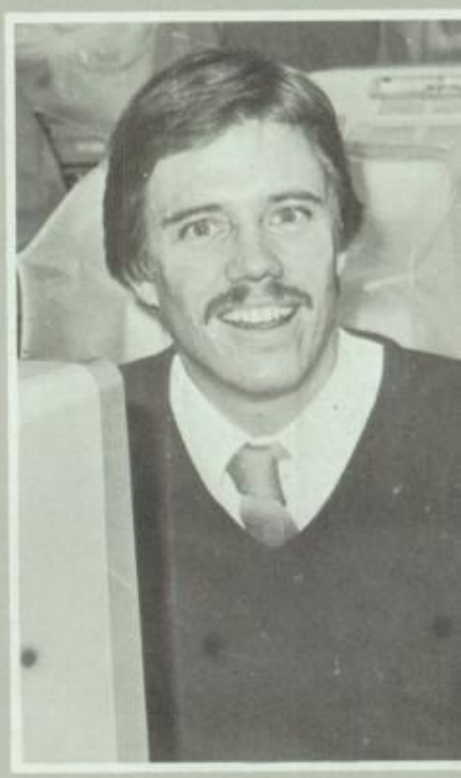
Maybe you wanted to meet people of Indian Heritage and learn about old Indian legends, then you joined the Indian Culture Club.

There was something for everyone and someone for everything.

Mr. Michael Kreps, sponsor of the band and orchestra also finds time in his hectic schedule to conduct the orchestra for the operetta . . .

Irene Soto works on the sophomore homecoming float because she is a member of sophomore council. Mrs. Becky Busch shows her pride in the Z Club, for which she is the advisor.

Club Advisors Add Spice to Fohi



It took a special kind of teacher to be an advisor of one of the 35 clubs on campus. The person had to have patience, and he/she had to be willing to give up spare time after school, during lunches, and sometimes on weekends.

The reward many of these teachers received was not money but the opportunity to see students grow academically and socially. Mr. J. W. Butcher, advisor of the Speech and Debate Club, stated, "It is gratifying to see students at a medium-range school hold their own in speed-debate competition with a private sector."

Mr. Dave Prather, Mr. Bill King, and Mrs. Becky Pershing devoted much of their time to FBLA as advisors. "The opportunity a business major receives when he/she becomes involved and active for leadership training cannot be measured. Becoming an officer or member provides these students the opportunity to excel in areas not found in the ordinary classroom," stated Mr. Prather.

Advisors had to put forth a great deal of effort to keep their particualr clubs active. Mr. Patrick Meagher revealed, "Between Drama Club and auditorium activities, I rarely leave before 6 p.m. and I'm present on most Saturdays. Students assist at all auditorium activities which last year meant 60 events (evenings and/or weekends.)"

It is obvious that club advisors played a very important role in keeping students active in events outside of the classroom. As Leo Club advisor, Mr. Gene Jozens concluded, "Clubs help keep students interested in activities other than scholastic. If advisors did not put out the time and effort, there would be no clubs."

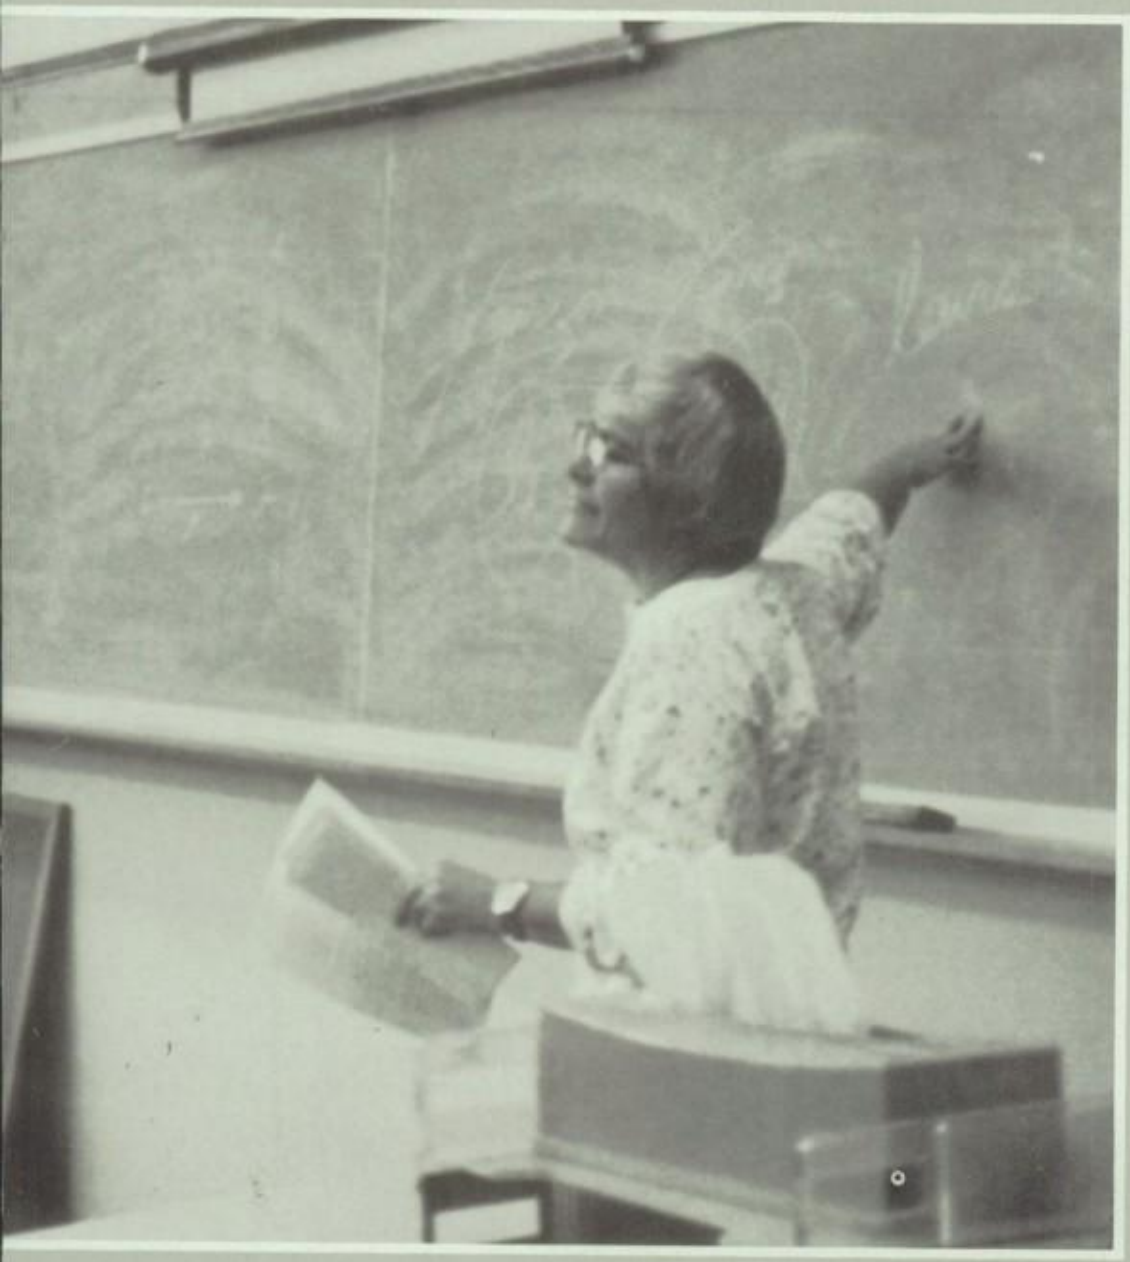
▲ Mrs. Goetz leads SCAT members on exciting trips and adventures.
► Campus Life advisor Mrs. Parker always keeps busy in her office as a counselor.
► Mr. Fischer is busy at his computer and as the head of the Math Club.



Ms. Workman, French club advisor, plans with students for next year's trip to France.

Fund Raisers Finance Club Activities

Clubs engaged in different fund raisers for a variety of reasons. Some clubs raised money to benefit orgnaizations other than themselves; others tried to make enough money for their members to go to conferneces or to pay for end-of-the-year banquets and awards. A few clubs even awarded scholarships to deserving seniors.

Leo Club raised money to benefit the blind. They asked for donations and in return gave the donors white cane pins. The money raised went to organizations for the blind. Mr. Gene Jozens, club advisor, replied, "We have fund raisers to help the people who are less fortunate."

S.O.T.N. cleaned up the stadium in order to receive $150. With the money raised they bought lazer tag guns. Mr. Wayne Landes, one of the club advisors, said, "The members of S.O.T.N. did a good job while cleaning, and some of them can go on to do it professionally."

Mrs. Alice Path, advisor of Z-Club, commented on fund raisers, "Our fund raisers were not just hard work, but they were also fun!" Z-Club also donated $250 in order to purchase a well in Sri Lanka, Africa. They also sponsored a Valentine's Day party for the Old Timers' Foundation. In addition, they also gave an Easter party for the Virginia Primrose School for the severely handicapped.

The sophomore class held a candy sale and a calender sale. Mrs. Cindy Mandy, advisor, confessed, "Although we have a variety of fund raisers, candy sales always seemed to be the ones that provided the club with the most money."

Shooting For Goals

S.O.T.N. (Shooters of the Nark) is an adventurous club involving Wayne Landes, school security, and close to 50 members.

The club was founded on an event that happened in 1984. Landes explained, "One day two guys came out of P.E. lockers and started shooting at me with their combs." So Wayne shot back with his walkie talkie.

This beginning brought ideas, and the new club was formed.

"Gotcha" was the game that involved all members. Each member received a contract and a picture of a person he had to tag. When he found that person he yelled, "gotcha."

The game went on until everyone was tagged; the last person to be tagged was the winner.

"The thing I've enjoyed the most about being in the club is fighting with Wayne," laughed Jerry Haire, senior.

"I like this club because I like to horse around. One day I saw this guy with my contract and I ran away so he wouldn't tag me," exclaimed Brian Keough, junior.

Sophomore Craig Wallace smiled, "I liked hiding out and chasing people around. It's a challenge."

Ryan Heideman, senior, said, "The thing I liked the most was beating that ugly nark up."

A very important event on our campus in the month of May is Math Field Day. The proper name for it is Charlie Pine Math Field Day. This name was taken for the former club advisor, Mr. Pine. This year David Fisher is the club advisor. On M.F.D. students from every elementary and junior high school participate. The average number of students is usually from 150-200. Students come on a Saturday and compete against each other. This club's purpose is to stimulate interest in mathematics and inform students on careers in Math.

Top row: Jerry Lin, Carrie Wilson, John West, and Vince Plaza. Bottom row: Lowell Snyder, Gabriel Penna, Brian C Patricia Balu, and Mr. Wayne Bringhurst (advisor).

Christian

Campus Life is a club whose main purpose was to provide Christian fellowship among students. Mrs. Karlene Allen, Ms. Linda Spencer, and Mrs. Eilene Parker were the advisors. With their time and patience, Campus Life was one of the most successful clubs on campus. Mrs. Allen said, "It was successful because a lot of people who cared worked hard."

Meetings were held on Wednesdays in the choir room at lunch. Lunch was served for a dollar donation, while students gathered to hear a different guest speaker every week. Deanna Gay stated, "It's an opportunity to be with other Christians."

Campus Life had many activities including slumber parties and retreats at Mrs. Allen's. Dawn Becks said, "The friends you meet in Campus life are true friends."

For the first time, Campus Life joined with other Campus Life groups in Southern California. They had a great time playing broom hockey on ice, and powder puff football. The best time they had, according to Mrs. Allen, was when they hosted other Campus Life Clubs in April at a retreat.

1. Gilbert Escoboza and Mrs. Allen take time out to chat.
2. Melissa Rist shows patience while trying to open a box of candy.
3. Pamela Scott likes what DeAnna Gay has to say about a scripture in the Bible.

Drill Team Members Drum Up Spirit

Drill Team was a group made up of hardworking girls who tried to give our school some spirit at the football games. The Drill Team performed halftime shows and parades, and later they planned to be able to perform at basketball games and other competitions.

The girls put in about two hours of practicing a night Monday through Thursday, with routine make-ups on Saturdays. Lisa Gonzales, who has been in the group for four years, stated, "We're doing very well."

Before, most of the moves were military and very sterile. This year they tried to get out of that and make a lot more modern dance moves. Jeanine Peirson, who has been a member for five years said, "I LOVED IT; the applause was the best reward for all of the hard work we did."

Columns and Chaos

Deadlines and nervous breakdowns. That's what newspaper is all about. Actually, the men and women on the newspaper staff seemed to enjoy everything about being journalists.

Staff writer Deanna Gay indicated that the staff had a great start because they felt so comfortable together.

Exchange Editor Stephanie Nichols commented, "Actually, newspaper is kind of like having a job because I have deadlines, and I can't just settle for a "C" on a paper. It's a lot of work that has to get done or you're out! It's a great experience and a lot of fun."

The newspaper staff had weekly deadlines. These deadlines included writing at least one story per week and planning and laying out pages. Every three to four weeks the paper was under way and ready to keep the student body well informed.

The Indian Culture Club was created in 1977 as an organization for the purpose of preserving the heritage of the American Indian. The club consists of about 20 members. They meet every Tuesday at lunch to discuss their future plans. Some of the activities they were involved in were sales of candy, Steeler Pride pins, and flat bread with all proceeds going to their school scholarship funds. They also learned how to video tape different school related activities.

Club officers were David Wickstrom , President; Kenny Marshall , Vice President; Audrey Terkelson , Secretary, Johnnie Santana, Treasurer, and Dan Fletcher, Chief.

Mecha is an organization for the Chicano Students Movement. It is a club in which to learn more about the chicano ancestory. The club was involved in many different activities throughout the year. They sold candy with the money which they made going toward a trip to Magic Mountain. They also sponsored a Mexican food booth during Homecoming Week. The club hoped to get together with other Mecha clubs. The members feel that they are one of the most active clubs on campus. The sponsors were Mrs. Quiroz and Mrs. Maricic.

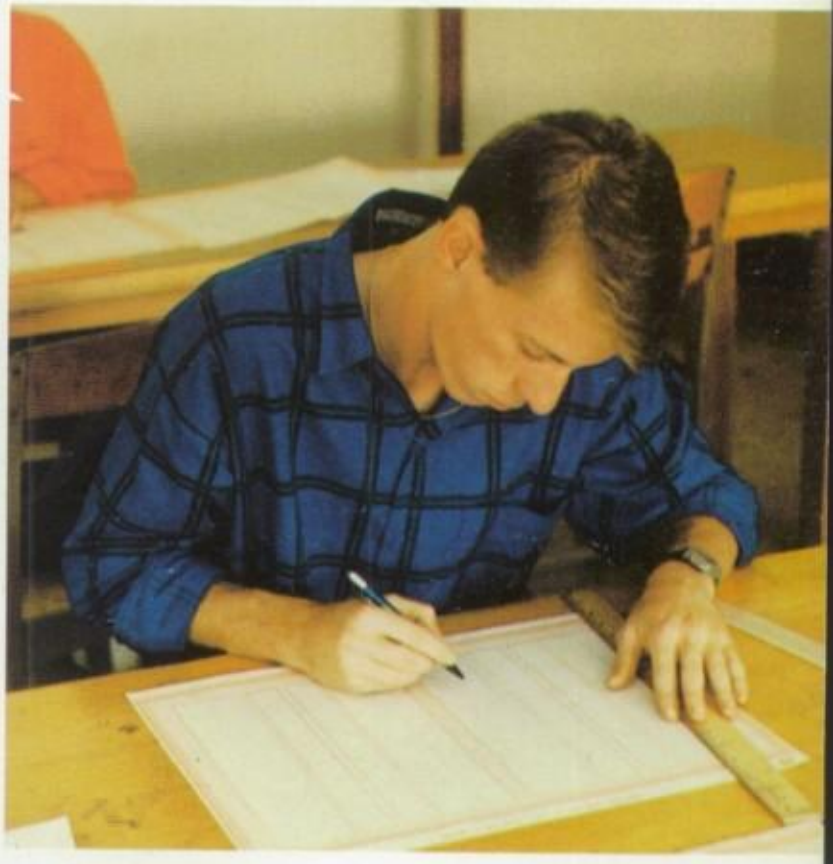
Making Memories That Will Last a Lifetime

The '87 yearbook staff was a hard working bunch of students. They did a lot of preparation before they could publish a complete book with the memories of the whole year. They prepared quad-paks, layouts, copy, photos, and typing before their representative could even think of picking up the pages. The most stressing parts of yearbook were the deadlines. Yes, deadlines! Many students thought yearbook was a kick-back class where you threw a bunch of pictures on a page, but it wasn't. There was a lot of hard work that went into the yearbook. Gwen Beber stated "Yearbook is a very exciting and challenging class. You can meet a lot of people through it, but the work is hard. You have to give it 100% of all you've got in order for the book to be a success."

▼ Dion Auck continues to work on his opening layout with perfection in order that he might finish it by the end of the period and not have to work on it tomorrow.



Endless Opportunities Abound

As one of the largest clubs on campus, VICA (Vocational Industrial Clubs of America) had an exciting year. The members for the club attended and competed in Vocational Competitions. These competitions, as well as some debates, involved other schools' clubs and club members. They competed on the areas of diesal mechanics, machine shop, welding, parlimentary procedures, nursing, and architectural drafting. Judging was based on quality, accuracy, and, in some cases, craftsmanship of the work.

"I've really learned a lot in VICA," stated Maria Cerda, a senior. "It was great to meet people, at competitions as well as at school. To put it simply, it was lots of fun."

"I think the name of our club states it best," said EEE sponser, James Bowers . He was speaking of the name, "Exciting Educational Experience." It's a club that offers kids the oppourtunity to take part in activities that most kids don't get a chance at.

"It's great," responded Eloise Ortega, President of the club, "This year we did a whole lot of fundraising. As a result of that hard work, we toured the L.A. County Museums, as well as the La Brea Tar Pits. It was a really educational year."

Future Business Leaders of America, otherwise known as FBLA, is a club for business oriented students. Its purpose is to increase skills in all business techniques such as typing, accounting, shorthand, and computers. FBLA gave its members an advanced preparation on their careers.

President Todd Andrews stated, "We handed out flyers for community service points at the Crime Prevention Fair. Our activities were local and state including conferences, competition typing, accounting job interviews, and word processing."

With Mr. Bill King as the advisor, FBLA was assured of having a good year.

Committed To Success

Mr. Mike Kreps , who has been band director for two years, said that, "Ninety band members were committed to success this year." They proved it by participating in three tournaments, including Lancaster, Palmdale, and Preview of Champions, at Redlands High School. They took part in eight parades, including Glendale, Rancho Cucamonga, Baldwin Park, Fontana Days, Fontana Christmas Parade, Fontana Homecoming Parade, The Disneyland Parade, and The Maytime Band Review in San Diego. Mr. Kreps stated, "The group had more great leadership than last year's group."

Band members, Mr. Kreps, and instructors took pride in all of the practice-time they put in for tournaments and parades. The members were very organized. They practiced during fifth period and Tuesdays and Thursdays from six o'clock to nine o'clock at night. Even off campus, students were committed to practice, and sacraficed a lot of spare time to practice in many civic events including Veteran's Day Ceremonies and South Tamarind Athletes' Day.

Jason Terry and George Perez participated in the 1987 Tournament of Roses Parade Honor Band in Pasadena. Mr. Kreps made this band very outgoing and productive.

► Under the direction of Ray Martinez and Mrs. Michell Boswell Drum Major Jason Terry lead the band through the parade route to the homecoming game where they contantly raised the crowd's enthusiasm.

The Ins And Outs

The band was one unit," boasted president Steve Metz, "if the whole band could not participate, no one could." For instance, when the football team traveled to Rubidoux, only some of the band was invited to go. Therefore, none of the members would appear.

Drum lines instructor, Gregg Guzevich, who was hired by Mr. Kreps, added a great deal to the percusion section of the band. Henry Delao, who was also hired by Mr. Kreps, was an instructor who wrote all the programs for the band. In the end, all of the band's hard work and participation paid off!

There was a change in the Tall Flags' uniforms; gold was added to them. The same went for their flags.

▲ Trombones show real Steeler pride by providing energetic sounds for the crowd.

▼ Shields — Elouise Ortega, Loretta Lopez, Amy Bernard, Tina Laninovich, Terry Grassinger, Samantha Kussmann, and Cathy Boswell.

▼ Pam Krohm displays her new tall flag and uniform. The tall flags performed with the band at home games and in the homecoming parade.

► Scott Cartzdafner, John Newcomb, and Regina Easlon provide their energy and rhythm for the band. The drums and cymbals were a very important part of the band.
▲ The clarinets provide entertainment for the crowd during half-time at a football game.

"Z" Club

With a membership of 39, "Z" Club was filled to the max. A busy "Z" Club had many activities. They included an Easter Party for the Virginia Primrose School, A Valentine Party for the Oldtimers Foundation, a scate-a-thon, and a walk-a-thon. Treasurer, Dana Earls beamed, "There's nothing like "Z" Club to make you feel good about helping others. "Z" Club is open to Junior and Senior girls with a 3.0 grade point average or better. The "Z" Club took trips to a mountain cabin in Lake Arrowhead and attended a Big "Z" Conference.

The California Scholastic Federation consists of students who want to go to college and are willing to keep a grade point average between 3.5 and 4.0 in their classes. CSF students tried to get more out of life by applying for scholarships from good colleges. Some members were recruited for tutoring other students.

Plans to attend a college after high school were common among CSF members, many of whom wanted to attend for up to eight years in order to get their masters' degrees.

From Mountain Tops To Top Scores

"Ski Club is the most active club and funnest on campus. You make a lot of new friends, and you get to ski a lot of great places, like Mammoth and Utah. It's the greatest!" exclaimed Irene Russell .

One of the largest clubs on campus was the Ski Club, with an active 70 members. Its years activities included candy sales and a November rummage sale to help the members to raise money for local ski trips and the big trips to Utah during Christmas Vacation and to Mammoth during Spring Break.

Donna Brandt excitedly stated, "Mammoth was the best Spring Break I've ever had and my skiing improved a lot!" The officers were Marcy Campbell, president, Irene Russell, vice president, Geneanne Hendry, secretary, Kevin McClanahan, treasurer, and Jeremy Ray, historian, who added, "Ski Club is a blast; it gives you the opportunity for some great skiing, new friends, and another picture in the yearbook!"

Jim Dopf , Becky Busch , and Alice Path were the club's advisors. Coach Dopf stated, "This is my first year as advisor and I'm just hoping to keep up the tradition of excellence that Mr. Friess established." Geneanne Hendry quipped, "Ski Club is a great way to spend your weekends and vacations. You meet lots of new friends, and it gives you a reason to get out of the house!"

Academic Decathlon is a scholastic competition withseveral categories in which all participants must compete. The catagories are; economics, mathematics, science, fine arts, language and literature, social science, and impromptu speech, interview, and a written essay.

Some of the teachers who volunteered to help the students get ready for the competition were Mrs. Patricia Goetz, Mr. Tony Black, Mrs. Becky Busch, Mr. Jim Butcher, Mr. Dave Fischer, and Ms. Jo Zerilli.

The Decathlon was held at Cal State San Bernardino on November 15. Approximately 20 schools competed from the Fontana area, making a signifigant contribution to the 3,000 schools in the whole United States and Canada combined.

Mr. Fischer expressed his hopes to place in the top half overall and to get at least five trophies. Team members included Jerry Lin, Pat Gurting, Vince Plaza, Mike Rice, Bill Scroggins, Dee Pinkerton, Brian Chubb, John West, Jack Chung, U Hong Tang, and Carrie Wilson.

Ms. Zerilli said she was very excited about this year, but also that she would like to see a broader base of students involved. U Hong Tang commented that there was a lot of hard work to do in just a short amount of time. "The large amount you are required to learn in just a few month really tells you what you are required to learn in just a few months really tells you what you are capable of," agreed Mike Rice .

Different Hobbies and Countries

Foreign Exchange — Matsatoshi Shoyoma, Asako Inove, and Mrs. Peggy Edgcomb.

Drama Club has been coordinated by Mr. Pat Meagher, this year. Drama gave students a chance to learn how to act and have fun at the same time. The students involved sell refreshments to football games to help pay for production they will put on later on in the year. If you like to have fun and are interested in acting, then the Drama Club is for you!

Foreign Exchange students have been visiting our school for over fourteen years now, though it was much smaller then. This year's exchange students are all the way from Greece, Poland, Scotland, Japan and Japan. Mrs. Edgcomb is very involved in the exchanges and has been for as long as she can remember. She helps the students to adapt to the new and different environment.

Helping With Style

So that sophomores could get involved in their class activities, a new Sophomore Council was started last year.

Mrs. Patty Paluzzi stated, "Mr. Floyd Friess's suggestion of setting up a class council to involve the students in their class activities was an excellent idea, since the council had been successful in giving students information and involving them in activities in the past."

Mrs. Cindy Mandy and Mr. Ken Cenatiempo are the sponsors of sophomore council. " I wanted to get involved with my daughter's activities. I also enjoy being with young adults." commented Mrs. Mandy .

Sophomore Council had many different fund raisers. The money raised went toward the class's graduation and other things that the class is interested in doing, such as leaving a gift for the school.

"I joined sophomore council to get involved with my class and to help make the class of 1989 the best," replied Kim Harrison .

Tina Weeks added,"I wanted to be wanted to be able to look back and know that I was involved with my class."

At the present time, the Junior Class has 87 members who are active on the council.

Junior Council helped with the production of the prom. In addition, they worked in the snack bars during football games. The money earned from the fund raisers helped defray the cost of the class of 1988's graduation.

Renee Palazzolo stated, "I joined Junior Council because I wanted to get involved with something other than sports."

"Working in the Student Store is a great experience if someone is interested in owning his own business some day," stated Todd Andrews .

The students who worked in the store learned things that books couldn't have taught them like how to operate cash registers, take inventory on computers, write invoices, or place orders for supplies.

"I took the class so that I could see my friends, since I was at Fohi South all day," said junior, Joanna Jaramillo .

Choirs Unite Musical Voices

Madrigals consisted of young ladies and men who had to sing solo for the choir director, Mr. Dave Friberg, in order to have joined the group. He then chose those that he felt were best qualified to be a part of Madrigals.

Performances at churches, school concerts, and many other community benefits, kept Madrigals occupied. They also caroled through the school's hallways at Christmas time.

"Madrigals were composed of sixteen of the best singers on the campus," stated Mr. Dave Friberg.

Erin McDonald, senior, replied, "It was a privilege to have been in Madrigals because we were chosen by Mr. Friberg."

"It took total dedication to be in Madrigals. Music was my life," added senior, Denise Hernandez.

"Madrigals was a family unit," said senior, Cheryl Friberg.

The word A Capella means "without accompaniment." A Cappella Choir performed without the aid of instruments.

A Cappella was one of the four choirs that was chosen by the Choral Director of San Bernardino Valley College, Jack Andriese, to be part of a Christmas Television Show. The show was filmed on November 18 at St. Paul's Methodist Church.

"This year we had the greatest choir in the history of Fohi, and I was proud to be a part of it. I believe I had an excellent music education. The choir was like one big family; we pulled together and gave great performances," remarked junior, Hugh Rist.

Donna Brandt, junior, commented, "I was proud to have been part of the music program. In addition, I was impressed with the quality of the choir's sound."

"Choir was fun. It was a great class to have been in because I met a lot of new people. Throughout the year I was able to have participated in many exciting things such as concerts, opertta, and Cabaret Night. I joined A Cappella because I enjoyed music and I plan on making music my career," said junior, Laurie Courville.

Concert Ladies' Glee was composed of 115 young ladies who performed in the Spring and Christmas Concerts as well as the May Festival.

Staci Patterson, junior, expressed her feelings, "Mr. Friberg made the class more enjoyable for me. Glee helped me overcome my fear of performing in front of other people."

"Even though Glee required a lot of effort, Mr. Friberg made the class more enjoyable," commented junior, Shannan Tucker.

Tara Koss, senior, added, "I liked the class a lot. I never realized that singing could have been so much fun."

Like Ladies' Glee, Concert Mens' Glee performed in the Spring and Christmas Concerts as well as the May Festival. Concert Mens' Glee contained 39 young men.

Johnny Espinoza, junior, said, "I want to be an actor and Glee helped me get involved with things such as the operetta. I was also able to overcome my stage fright."

"We were one big family. I enjoyed singing this past year. I joined Glee so that I was able to have voice lessons and practice for the opertta," commented junior, Gene Grossi.

"I enjoyed singing very much. I liked performing with the Glee in front of many people. Glee was much different than I expected," added sophomore, David Warner.

Pep Squad Cheers Steelers on to Victory

The varsity pep squad began their year by attending camp during the sumemr in Santa Barbara while the sophomore cheerleaders went to competition and placed 4th. They spent many long hours practicing to perfect their cheers and chants. They cheered on many of our athletic teams, including basketball, football, and wrestling.

Some of the activities they were involved with were making scrapbooks for all the senior players on the athletic teams, car washes, and swim-a-thons. During football season they sold spirit ribbons and raffle tickets for Cabbage Patch Kids at the games.

When asked why she wanted to be involved with cheerleading Gayle Olson stated, "I enjoyed it a lot, and it helped me to contribute school spirit." The adviser was Mrs. Cathy Bruich, and her assitant was Mrs. Pam Westbrook.

The CIF playoffs were the sites of many fine football teams, among them, our mighty Steeler men. FOHI, the underdog at the beginning of the 1986 season, rose above the winning speculations to earn themselves the CBL title and make it into the playoffs.

The Steelers were a truly impressive sight on the field, with their wing-T offense, and their tough and devastating defense. One newspaper claimed that Dick Bruich headed the coaching staff of the year. An honor, indeed, and Coach Bruich had this to say, "It's really a tribute to the players. They did a good job, and they believed what the coaches told them. We were happy to have such a good group of guys, the success of which was contributed to by all of the coaches: Jim Vessey, Skip Fazio, John MacKinney, Steve Hernandez (all FOHI teachers), Lou Patrone, Bart Goldstein, Mike Donnelly, Tom Patrone, and Bob Miranda."

Derrick Malone, named player of the year by the same paper, had the following to say about his success, "It feels nice and everything, and it is really a dream come true. I never thought that I would become player of the year or anything close to that. I would like to thank Chris Ybarra, Matt Helsius, Vince Rollins, Kevin Corby, Gabe Penna, John Molina, and Chalen Tessitore, all of the players who blocked for me. I would especially like to thank Coach Bruich for giving me the opportunity to play."

Three players were chosen to All-CIF, one of which was also chosen to the All Southern Section. These talented players were, Keith Washington, Matt Helsius, and Steve Lee. Their comments are as follows:

"It is a great honor and pleasure to be chosen as one of the players to the All-CIF team. I feel very lucky to have made it, and very grateful to my teammates for helping me to achieve this honor."

— Keith Washington

"I feel very honored to have been chosen from the many candidates for ALL-CIF. I would like to thank the rest of my teammates and coaches. For without them, this honor would have been beyond my reach. The team's success has enabled individuals such as Keith, Steve, and myself to be named to the ALL-CIF Big Five Conference team."

— Matt Helsius

"I am very honored to be chosen as an outstanding player. I would like to thank my fellow teammates and coaches for making this possible. Special thanks are in order for my Mom and my girlfriend because of her loving care."

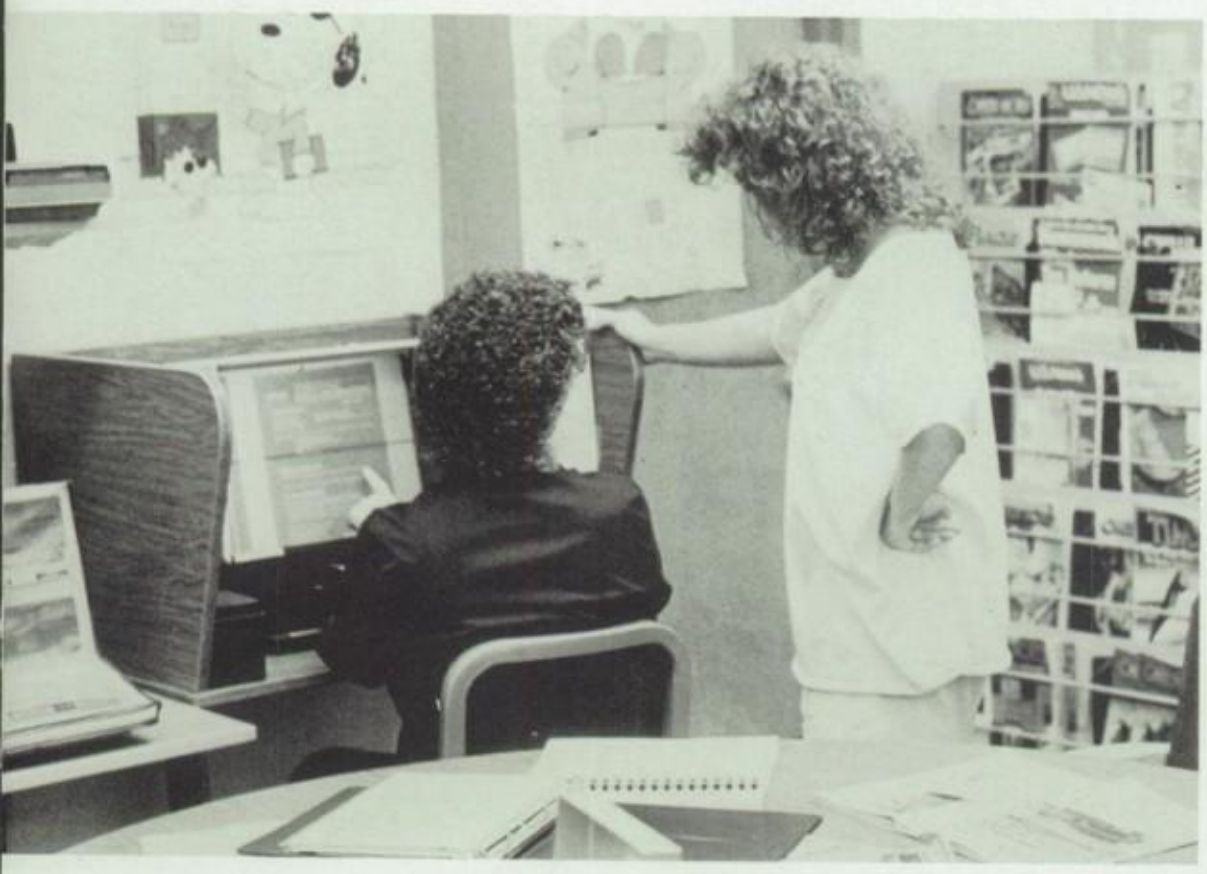
ACADEMICS

Academics rated number one with both students and faculty. Academics were, after all, the reason for attending school; but, how did the students and teachers feel about the quality of Fohi's academics? Mrs. Eileen Parker, Counselor, said, "I think we have an excellent faculty that provides quality instruction to our students. We offer advanced level classes in almost all departments that are quality weighted for the university of California system. Our seniors have improved the CAP scores over last year." She went on to say, "I think we keep getting better, because we are constantly working on improving ourselves."

Chris Delgado, senior, was also asked what he felt about the quality of our academics and he said, "Back in the dawn of time, when I was a sophomore, adacemics were about average. The've improved immensly in four years. The class of '89 is probably going to be the best class this school has ever had."

Also, to encourage and reward students for their accomplishments, Academic Medals were awarded. Mrs. Kathy Crane explained, "The Academic reward for the students who choose to focus their abilities on their current job (high school), whether it be academics or vocational. The future rewards will be immeasurable."



Studies kept academics on the rise.

Learning With A Guiding Hand

For students who had no place to study without being hassled or bothered, a homework center was established to overcome these difficulties.

Located in the school library, the program was operated Monday through Thursday from 5 P.M. to 9 P.M. On staff each night were a librarian to aide students with research, and teachers who guided the students in need of help. On Monday, Ms. Melissa Mason, on Tuesday, Mr. Bob Larson, on Wednesday, Mr. Howard Moss, and on Thursday, Mr. Terry Padgett, were fully available.

Mr. Anthony Lardieri, superintendent, commented, "I believe that this program was a great idea. In addition, the program may expand if enough students took advantage of this opportunity."

Mr. Howard Moss, science teacher, added, "The homework center was a super place for students to go when peace and quiet was needed or if the students just needed a little aid."

P.T.S.A. (Parent Teacher Student Association) has been an active organization for over 90 years. This organization was created in order to fulfill the following needs of students: to promote their welfare, to raise the standards in home life, to secure laws for the care and protection of students, to bring into closer relations with the home, parent, and teacher, and to secure the highest advantages in spiritual education.

In order to become a member, small dues were paid. Another fund raiser adopted by the P.T.S.A. was selling food items at the snack bars during football games.

With the money earned, they donated four scholarships, presented the senior breakfast, and helped with the other needs of students. For example, two students were short money and unable to take an Advanced Placement test, so the P.T.S.A. donated the money to enable the students to take the test.

Sara Brewster, a member, said, "I've been in P.T.S.A. for 25 years, and I believe that all parents should get involved with their son's and/or daughter's activities. Parents may not realize it, but they need to be more supportive of their children's activities during their years in school."

It All Measures Up

The advanced placement (AP) program is a program of college level courses and exams for secondary school students. The courses offered in the AP program are English, American History, Calculus, Computer Science, Spanish, and Government.

Students can get college credit if they pass the optional test given at the end of each course. The fee for taking an AP test is $53. The tests are given in May. More than 24,000 AP students are potentially eligible for sophomore standing each year.

The PSAT test is a test given to juniors to prepare them for the SAT test which is taken by students to get into a college.

"I took the PSAT test, and thougth that it was very hard to take. I didn't know a lot of the things on the test. I feel they should make it a little easier," said junior Kristi Nelson.

"The test was semi-difficult and I wasn't ready for it. Hopefully I'll be prepared for the SAT," stated Smiley Villavicencio.

"It was hard because it took a lot of thought and concentration before marking the correct answers," said Wendi Smith.

The California Assessment Program (CAP) is a survey of basic skills given to all twelfth grade students in California. This achievement test measures student performance in four content areas, reading, written expression, spelling and mathematics.

The teachers made it out to be real hard and, considering I am not exceptionally bright, I thought the test was considerably easy," said Jennifer Merry.

Excitement in the Classroom

Many selective classes are offered to students during their three years in high school. The Science Department offered basic biology, biology, earth science, chemistry, physiology, and physics.

In Physiology, the class took part in the dissection of cats. In physics, wave motion was studied by using coil springs. In Chemistry, experiments dealing with different smells took place.

The Foreign Language Department offered classes in Spanish, French, and German. These classes took part in learning about the cultures and people associated with each language they studied. Spanish classes even prepared luncheons featuring enchiladas, burritos, and nachos, among the many authentic delicacies.

The Art Department also offers many different classes, such as screen printing, art, and ceramics. In screen printing, the students learned how to make different things, such as stickers and t-shirts. In the Art classes, the students learned how to make three dimentional designs. In the ceramics classes, they learned how to make different types and shapes of pots and animals.

English Offers Exciting Electives

The departments on campus have consisted of many types of new and informative classes for knowledge-seeking students. No such department is larger than that of English. If you are a senior, junior, or sophomore, your classification as to an applied average. Advanced or advanced placement student is varified by your achievements. English electives are also available for those with other interests. Electives consist of speech and debate, Journalism 1 and 2, and newspaper.

The major events that take place in an English classroom are the annual spelling bees, and senior research papers.

The stress on literature is as equally important as grammar.

"We try to convey appreciation for the literature of major authors," stated Mrs. Huz.

The Math Department is also very large. Its variety of classes are also based upon individual achievements. One would follow the pattern of arithmetic, pre-algebra, algebra review, geometry, algebra 2, trigonometry and calculus. Other elective math-oriented classes are, computer production, consumer math, and computer application.

The History Department's average, advanced and advanced placement classes all have guest speakers, videos of historic moments, and group discussions. Government class has been one of the most popular and talked about classes on campus.

"I think Government class was interesting because you learn things you never knew and it helps you for the future," said Yolie Mendoza, senior.

Shop: Not Just A Class

The Shop classes this year brought excitement into electives; they allowed students to use their talents in all different things. For some they were just fun, but for others, it was a head start for a career. Drafting, welding, wood and auto were just a few to choose from. Auto shop was an ROP class that let students travel for competitions concerning cars and their works. For Hal Sims, "The Drafting Department at this school is very remarkable; we have great teachers and are really well supplied. I was in Engineering II, and I really enjoyed the class. Mr. King created an amazing learning atmosphere that helped a lot."

Consumer Science was also exciting. It taught students about food, sewing, interior decorating, and human development. Foods offered the know-how to learn proper eating techniques and to experience cooking. Learning how to decorated homes inside and to bring out their full look of quality is what interior decorating was all about. Human development showed proper care for a young child. For sewing, Aly Burris explained, "I enjoyed sewing very much. It made me feel like I accomplished something on my own. The teacher was really super, and she made the class interesting."

Agriculture was an exciting class for the Future Farmers of America and anyone else who was interested in learning about the way to run a farm. It explained about harvesting crops and raising animals. It also had a garden and real animals to work with. So, if farming interests you, then this is the class for your extra elective next year.

Fohi Programs Help the Community

There are four very special programs here at Fohi to help the students as well as the community.

The Indian Education program, contrary to popular belief, is open to everyone at Fohi, not just people of Indian descent. Anyone can use the facilities of the center, located east of the library. However, only the people who are part Indian have "voting power." The Indian Education Program raises money for scholarships to present to people of Indian heritage. The man to see if interested is Ben Upton.

The Department Chair person of the special education program is Jim Bowers. He is a member of the Charlses Study Team, which discusses the students' needs. This past year, the state of California examined the special education records to see if they were in order.

Mr. Bowers, who enjoys his job thoroughly, said "In my position, I have the chance to work with my kids and establish more of a relationship with them. I also get the chance to see the results of my teaching."

Marlene Gunn, in charge of the Career Center here at Fohi has a busy job working with counselors and kids in the departments of job placement, career searches, financial aid information, college majors, and R.O.P. classes. She's always available to answer any questions about the career field. Her office is also located east of the library.

Mr. Richard Drake is the principal of the adult education program located here on campus. "Many people go to adult school to receive their high school diplomas," he replied. "Others attend to upgrade their job." Most of the Adult Education classes meet once a week for two and a half hours. His office is located east of the library, also.

CLOSING

What a year! 1987 has finally come to a close, and now there is nothing left to do but breathe sighs of relief and of sadness. It was great to get another year tucked under our belts, but it was almost heartbreaking to watch 1987 slip out of sight with only memories to remain.

So much happened! There was FOHI South, our new principal Mrs. Rager, (also FOHI's first woman to hold the position), our new Superintendent of Schools, Mr. Larideri, the school's new look, the new attendance policy, and list could go on.

What a year to cover! There was never a dull moment. With so many activities, sports, and tough classes, little time could be wasted.

But the busy 1987 year was constantly buzzing with excitement. The improvements being made around the school sparked initiative in a lot of students to take action in helping out with the refurbishing process. A large majority of the student body, divided by grades, friendships, etc. united together in devotion of help during the school's nearly complete rennovation.

It was quite touching to witness loyalty in action. The unity was thick and immiscible. It was an honor to be part of such a close family; it was only natural to be proud.

Graduation was a sentimental ceremony. It was difficult to break the bonds that had grown so strong. Sure, it was great to move ahead, but Memories are all that remain, and the best way to remember them is to remininsce frequently, so that the 1987 year will be forever alive.

Even "Egor" had a great year!

Mixed Emotions Felt At the End of the Year

As yet another year has come to a close, feelings run mixed and high. Every senior wonders what he/she is going to do with this awesome thing called independent life. Juniors are excited to be moving up a grade — the senior parking lot is finally theirs. For the sophomores, the relentless teasing table has finally turned.

For 13 years (yes, 13!), seniors have been arising every morning and getting ready for school. For some, this routine will continue. For others, this is it. Yet, the BIG QUESTION remains: WHAT NOW?? George Figaszewski said that he was happy to graduate and get on with his accounting career. Leanne Lopez felt that graduating was "the bitchinest thing that I've accomplished." Bob Bedwell, VICA president, said, "I feel so happy — I don't see graduating as an ending, only as a new beginning in my life." Matt McDermott responded, "I feel really good and I'm looking forward to college." Matt will be studying to be an X-ray technician. Beth Peterson felt that graduation was no big deal, because she was going straight to college in Fullerton anyway. Randy Hill summed it up nicely, saying, "Graduating is a great accomplishment which not all people achieve, but I'm glad that I did!"

Well, Juniors, here it comes, your last year! How does it feel? Senior privileges are all yours, everything from Senior Parking to a year full of fun (and hard work, too) is yours!

Johnny Molina was happy because he "could finally park in the senior parking lot — LEGALLY!" Jennifer Hughes was full of helpful adjectives (a word that modifies a noun), "Wonderful, fantastic, great. What else can I say?" Just think, you guys, next year at this time YOU'LL be graduating!"

O.K., Sophomores, the time has come; you're moving up. The year wasn't really that bad, was it? Next year you'll have cars, licenses, and new sophomores to tease! Mark Carter was really happy because, "It'll be pretty cool that I'll have my license and my car!

Working Toward Success

Many students spend a great deal of their time devoting themselves to working at various businesses around the area. McDonald's, Miller's, Baskin Robbins, Wendy's, Arby's, and Stater Brothers were just a few of the businesses that employed students, usually at the minimum wage, $3.35 per hour. Many worked after school and on weekends. After school they'd go home, change clothes, and report to work.

Sometimes school and social life had to be put on the back burner because of jobs. Mishelle Tredinnick, who worked as a salesperson at Miller's Outpost, stated, "Working put strees on my social life because my friends didn't work and they had much more time for socializing than I did." Lisa Lucero commented, "Working sometimes put a damper on my socializing, but usually everything worked out since I only worked weekends."

Even though working involved much responsibility and time, many students agreed that the fringe benefits, like having extra money in their pockets, made having a job all worthwhile. When a special occasion, such as the Prom, came along, students found it nice to have extra money to spend on an extra special night. Lisa Fox remarked, "I loved having extra money to do with what I pleased." Francis Olaiz didn't find the money as important as many of the other students. She worked at a planning clinic and remarked, "My reward for working was learning from what I did and meeting new people." Carla Kingsbury quipped about working at McDonald's, "The idea of working at a fast-foot restaurant is appalling."

Students had different emotions and ideas about working. However, most students who worked probably agreed that working helped prepare them for the maturity and responsibility that comes with adulthood.

◄ Perfecting pizza is what Stan Johnson does at Chuck E. Cheese. ▼ K-Mart's Chrystal Cruz makes sure the customer is always right. ▼ Gene Grossi knows his pies at Katie McGuire's.

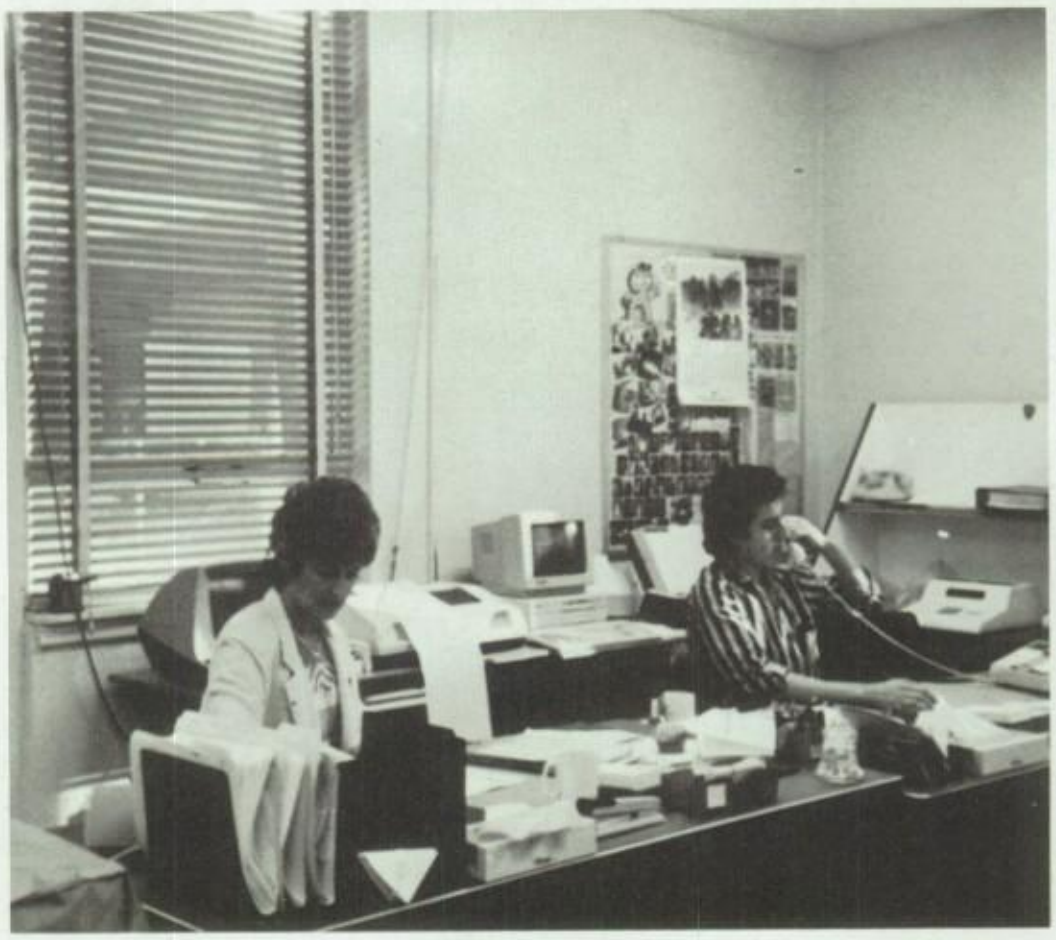
► The roar of student's excitement was amazing as the Steelers scored again against Ike. The students' section was the perfect way to raise school spirit.
▲ The students pile out of the bus that drops them off at South Fohi, in an attempt to reduce the crowds on the main campus.
► Mrs. Kingsbury keeping busy as the phones ring off the hook.



Did It Work?

As the year came to a close, students began to think back over the highlights: the new ideas, the new policies, and the new look on the campus. Along with these recollections, came the question, "Did the ideas, policies, and Fohi South work?"

Did the new student section at football games raise school spirit? "Yes, it let us sit with our friends and not be bothered by the alumni and vice-versa," commented junior, Louise Skura.

Did Fohi South work? Senior, Chris Delgado reflected, "Yes, it was organized, but it had its problems, like busing. There were several times when the buses couldn't get all the students to the main campus." The new attendance policy, utilizing the blue scan-tron sheets, did work according to some, but didn't work according to others.

What is Predicted?

What well become of Fontana High school after the class of 1987 graduates? Will the school close down without us? The answer is no, Fontana High will go on. Will school be business as usual for the students who return after summer? No one will know until next year, but following are some predictions concerning the outcome of certain occurences at Fontana High.

The tardy policy will be changed for the better. It will be better for the school and more strict for the students. The couples that like to wait for the last minute to get to class will have a hard time, and all of the slow walkers will have to quicken the pace.

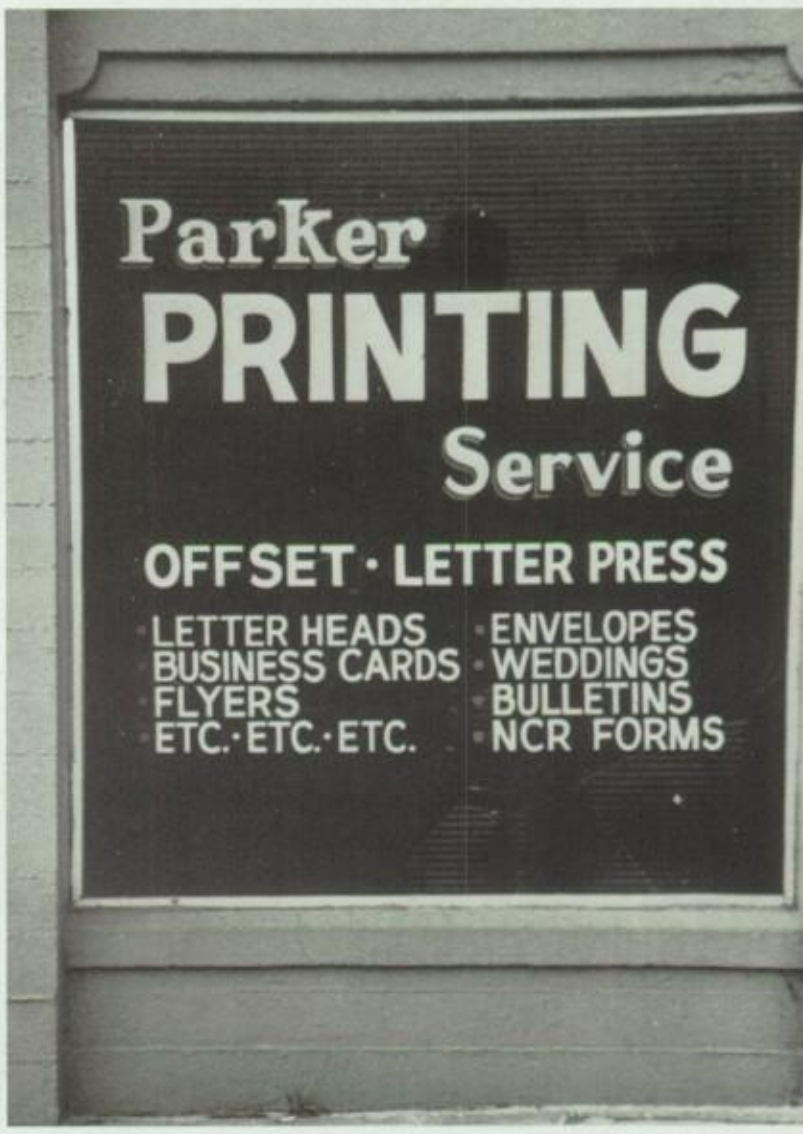
There will be more pep rallies next year and more assemblies, too. The football team will get the enthusiasm and support they so richly deserve. The students from Fohi South will be bused to the mother campus so they can enjoy the action as well.

Next year will be full of improvements and changes. School will be as enjoyable and energetic as ever.

▼ The student store was the popular place for goodies and gifts for special friends.

▼ Fohi's new principal, Mrs. Kay Rager, was responsible for the many changes and improvements on campus.

◀ Fohi South was a great place for socializing during passing period.



▲ In addition to providing somewhere to eat "steak, seafood, and salad" a place, Sizzler also donated ten percent of the receipts marked "Fohi" to school.
◄ Buchheit's Garage kept many of the cars of Fontana in good running con
▲ Parker Printing Service fullfilled much of Fontana's printing needs.
◄ Many students took advantage of Fontana City Florist's generosity in t deliver" flowers and baloons for special people on special occasions.

ADVERTISEMENTS

A special thanks goes out to all of the businesses that purchased advertisements in the yearbook, for without their cooperation this annual would not have been produced.

All students should take the time to browse through this section, for in the process they may discover how important these businesses were to the high school.

Fontana City Florists manager, Cynthia Bookil commented, "We support the high school because it is part of our town, and we love them (students)." Owner, Amy Schwartz, teacher and graduate of Fohi, also included that most of her employees were graduates of Fohi and for that reason they liked to support the high school.

"Supporting the high school is a good cause, and the students are great people," Mark Scott, owner of Jolly Farms Bar-B-Que, added. "The proceeds go to the students indirectly."

"Because the wrestling team supports us quite often, we show our generosity by purchasing an ad in the yearbook," said Ernie Uribe of Graziano's Pizza.

Danny Kasperski, employee of Peppi's Grinders, admitted his reasons for purchasing an advertisement in the yearbook: "It is good for business, and one of my sons attends the high school.

"Purchasing an ad in the yearbook is good for business," confessed Athony Hutchinson of Finley's Rexall Drug.

Charles E. Cripps D.D.S. and Fernando Jonas of Fontana Datsun shared the same opinion for purchasing an advertisement in the yearbook: "Supporting the students is one of my main concerns."

"Because my husband is a teacher of the high school, we like to support the high school by purchasing an ad in the yearbook," replied Cathy Newell, one of the owners of the The Perm-Rod Beauty Salon.

The many businesses now operating in Fontana have offered their generous support of school activities by purchasing advertisements in the yearbook, Fohi Forum, operatta playbill, and the football and basketball game programs. Without the advertiser's support, many of these things could not be made available to the student body.

Duffy's Quality Meats offered special types of butchery services to the people of Fontana.

▲ Many people took time off in the afternoon or evening to enjoy a nice meal at Sizzler.
► Without the services provided by Fontana Rubbish Collectors, local citizens would have a tough time properly disposing of all the rubbish collected each day.

Dear Kathy,

With your graduation comes an opportunity, beyond your pre sent imaginations. The road before you is long, hard, and satisfy ing. Enthusiasm for life, motivation to reach your dreams, an positive thinking for what you can be, will help you continue o whatever road you decide to take.

You have the power to climb mountains and swim seas. Yo will make mistakes, we all do. Overcoming mistakes and bad fo tune will make you stronger.

I once told you that love can be equated to the joy that you fee when you are with someone special, the feeling of pride, and con tentment. This kind of enjoyment, you have given me.

With this letter, I send you all my love, for today and all th tomorrows.

Love,

◀ The IBM computer made this Index possible.

INDEX

As you read this section, you may notice that you've never seen such a thing in a FOHI yearbook before. With this special Index section, the 1987 yearbook staff made history by including the names of all FOHI students. Beside each student's name is a list of the page number in which they appear.

The section was produced on the yearbook staff's IBM personal computer. The Index project was headed by Gwen Beber, Editor, and worked on by Elena Palm and Smiley Villavicencio, staffers.

Overall, the project took about fifty hours of hard work to complete, the names of all students had to be transferred from the school's IBM list onto five computer data disks, lists had to be made from all pages with the names of every person contained on the pages, and research had to be done in order to get the project on the road. Design and style sheets had to be dex pages.

The yearbook staff is sorry about any mistakes, but we can guarantee the for the junior and sophomores, next year's Index will be improved.

The yearbook staff is very proud of this yearbook, especially this Index section, because after all of the hard work, it is finally in print. The sense of accomplishment that accompanies such a project completion is awesome. However nothing could have been accomplished without the help of the understanding teachers and coaches who provided us with information and gave us extra time that was necessary in order to meet our deadlines.

Once again, we have presented this book to you with the utmost pride. It is the desire of the staff that you appreciate and enjoy this book because after all, it is YOUR book, and it is a reflection of YOU!

▲ Smiley Villavicencio examines the IBM list before typing the names on the computer.

Larry,
help bake, it's been real crazy knowing ya. You betty still call me over the summer me or else! Maybe one day I'll go skating with ya. Have a fantastic summer and I suppose I'll see you next year. Right? Gotta bail"
